Granite City Steel buys General Steel plant here

GENERAL STEEL PLANT offices in Granite City. The 118-acre plant has been sold to Granite City Steel, it

(Press-Record Photo)

The Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation has purchased the 118-acre installation in Granite City formerly occupied by the Castings division of General Steel Industries, Inc.

The transaction was announced jointly today by Nicholas P. Veeder, chairman of Granite City Steel, and W. Ashley Gray Jr., chairman of GSI.

Most of the equipment at the plant was sold at auction last November and the remaining machinery is being offered for sale by GSI.

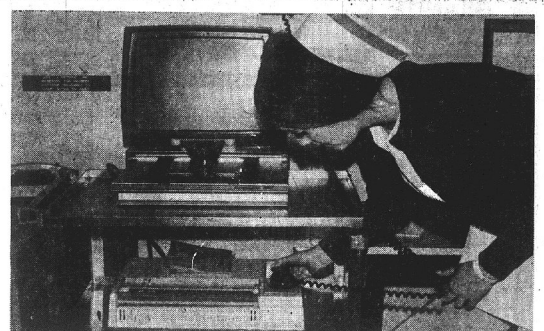

The purchase by Granite City Steel, for an announced price, covers land and buildings only. Veeder said, and does not involve GSI's business, business relationships, equipment or processes.

While Granite City Steel is not yet ready to announce plans for the property, Veeder said, "We expect to develop constructive uses."

Gray said, "GSI is, of course, pleased that this property will continue to play a role in the development of Granite City. It is also favorable that the new owner is a company with deep roots in the Granite City area."

Granite City Steel, largest steel producer in the bi-state St. Louis region, already owns in excess of 1,200 acres in and around its plant in Granite City.

St. Elizabeth keeps an extensive file on various poisons and the anecdotes. However, should a case come to the attention of the local hospital for which there is no recorded emergency room can quickly send a message to Cardinal Glennon Hospital and receive complete data on the poison in a few minutes. The printed message is then used to supplement St. Elizabeth's files.

Extend sanitary line

A new sewer line proposed by Archer Daniels Midland Co. to increase the capacity of the Granite City sewer along the Nameoki Ditch between St. Clair Avenue and Victory Drive was endorsed Monday night by the Granite City Council.

Mayor Paul Schuler told the council that the new line, which will be financed entirely by ADM, will relieve inadequate sewer capacity in that area. ADM, which operates the grain elevator on Cargill Road and is constructing a soybean processing plant beside the elevator, will finance the additional line as the first step in a plan to eventually run a sewer line from the soybean plant to the city's secondary sewage treatment plant.

No plans have been completed concerning the route or timetable for the remainder of the line. Don Shimon, chief engineer for ADM here, said this week. "We are studying several alternatives," he said. ADM requested, and was granted, excavation permits by the council Monday night for the first phase of the work.

The company will construct a lift station in the median of St. Clair Avenue near Willow Avenue, and will then run a six-inch force main sewer along the east side of the Nameoki Ditch levee, south to Victory Drive. The new line will run parallel to the existing city sewer in that area and will increase the capacity of the city's system by carrying a portion of the city's waste.

The ADM line then will run westerly into the existing city sewers at Faith Avenue between Marshall and Buxton avenues.

It was estimated that, in addition to eventually carrying the ADM waste water, the new line would provide capacity for more than 200 homes. The increased capacity may eventually have an effect on the sewer tap-on ban which has been necessitated by the overloaded sewers.

Schuler said plans are being formulated for providing sewerage to about 40 homes in the Zippel and Emert avenues area and the new sewer could assist in those efforts, but completion of the new sewer by ADM would not guarantee sewers for that area in the near future.

Shimon said ADM is waiting for official approval from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency before beginning the project. He said the EPA has indicated it plans to approve the system, however.

He did not estimate the cost of the project, but said the entire program to bring waste water from the soybean processing plant to the city's secondary sewage treatment plant could cost as much as $300,000.

"We can not be sure of the cost until we complete our plans for the remainder of the system," he said.

Librium drug abuse in area

Headway has been made in curbing illicit drug sources in this community but a new abuse has developed here in recent weeks involving a prescription drug, the Press-Record was told this week.

Librium, which is sometimes prescribed as a tranquilizing medication, is being used by non-patients in excessive quantities, jeopardizing their health and safety, it was disclosed. Some of those involved in librium abuse are young people, the source said.

Quid-City medical doctors are asking that those who purchase such prescription drugs keep track of the quantities and take steps to eliminate access to the drugs for others in the household.

"A serious detrimental effect results from non-prescribed use of prescription drugs, such as this one, and their use in a household should be supervised," a doctor commented. "And care should be taken to avoid them being re-sold to others."

Reject new apartments

A request for rezoning of a tract of land at 2700 Adams St. to permit construction of a 12-unit apartment building was rejected by a 10 to 3 roll call vote of the City Council Monday night.

The action came after spokesmen for delegations favoring and opposing the project were permitted to speak, although the building plans had been aired on two previous occasions before the City Plan Commission and once before the City Council.

The aldermen at the same time voted 9 to 4 to approve a request for a special use permit instead of the present R-2 classification for construction of a medical building at 1012-1014 W. Pontoon Road. That project also had been considered previously by the plan commission and the council.

The request for rezoning at 2700 Adams St. by Robert Lombardi was challenged in two meetings of the plan commission in February and March by neighborhood residents who claimed the building would create drainage problems and traffic congestion and would devalue residential property.

The plan commission, however, recommended that the apartment rezoning be approved, noting that construction plans provided for off-street parking. Mrs. Lombardi who spoke in behalf of the project before the plan commission and later before the council, including Monday night's meeting, noted that the neighborhood already includes several apartment buildings.

Mrs. Lombardi said she was representing the heirs of the Hillman family who wish to develop the property.

In its March 18 session, the City Council heard arguments for both sides and referred the Permit plan shelved

A minimum housing standards ordinance that would require persons moving into a Granite City dwelling to first acquire an occupancy permit was tabled by the City Council Monday night in the face of heavy opposition.

Council members agreed to send the ordinance to its planning and zoning committee and the city attorney for revision to eliminate some of the restrictions which the aldermen said they do not believe are needed in Granite City.

The ordinance was placed on first reading in the March 18 council session in what was described as a move to upgrade and maintain a fair standard of housing facilities in Granite City.

In addition to establishing a strict set of housing standards, the bill provided that a person moving into a dwelling first must obtain an inspection of the property at a fee of $15, and an occupancy permit, at a cost of $2, if the dwelling met the requirements and was approved by the building inspector.

In the same action, the council also referred to the planning and zoning committee a separate ordinance establishing strict mobile home regulations. That bill had been posted for public inspection and had not yet been offered for first reading, but some terms of the ordinance were applicable under the minimum housing standards bill.

Sverdrup may study fast-breaking sewers

By HARRY BARNES Press-Record Staff Writer Granite City officials moved in a three-point program this week to resolve a mounting series of financial problems and to determine what may be done about the city's sewer system in the Nameoki area.

The cost of repairing sewer breaks is blamed at least in part, for most of the city's fund deficiencies.

The effort to cope with financial and sewer break problems which have brought the city to the brink of payless paydays was spurred by reports to the City Council Monday night of two more sewer breaks. These are expected to add substantially to the city's sewer repair bill—already well past the $1 million mark during the current fiscal year.

DEEP IN CONCENTRATION on efforts to resolve problems confronting the Nameoki Township Highway Department, Highway Commissioner Albert Bell, right, studies his department's proposed 1974-75 fiscal budget during a public hearing Tuesday night. Bell is attempting to resolve a strike by his employees and a feud between him and Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell. At left is Town Auditor W. Lee Adams. (Press-Record Photo)

Developments during Monday night's council session included: Mayor Paul Schuler informed the aldermen that he is awaiting an estimate from the St. Louis engineering firm of Sverdrup & Parcel on the cost of making a survey that would determine what steps the city should take to solve the problem of repeated sewer breaks in the Nameoki area—a survey that conceivably could include a recommendation for complete replacement of the system.

3. Cutoff was asked to provide another legal opinion as to the city's authority to use federal revenue sharing funds for financing sewer repairs and other street department operations. These costs have been met from regular general fund monies resulting in the city's present fund depletions.

In a related action, the council authorized the purchase of a third submersible pump to

Mini-arbitration plan

Expedited arbitration, a new procedure for faster resolution of grievances or disputes over labor contract interpretations, has been established for the St. Louis area steel industry and the United Steelworkers union, it was announced jointly today.

Paul M. Walter, vice president—industrial relations, Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation, and Ben Fischer, director of contract administration, United Steelworkers of America, said the effectiveness of expedited arbitration or "mini-arb" is already being demonstrated in other steelmaking centers.

Fischer was co-chairman of a joint company-union study which found that steel plant employees believe they get better justice when complaints can be processed under the new mini-arb procedure than is possible under formal steel industry arbitration proceedings.

EXPEDITED ARBITRATION plan has been developed, it was announced today. Left to right are Ben Fischer, director of contract administration of the United Steelworkers of America, and Paul M. Walter, Granite City Steel vice president-industrial relations.

A feud which has been developing for several months between Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell and Township Highway Commissioner Albert Bell went beyond verbal disagreement and erupted into a fist fight between the two men. It was disclosed Tuesday night.

Bell, sporting a blackened eye and a bruised lower lip, did not comment on his injuries during the township public hearing on his road and bridge budgets Tuesday night, but later told the Press-Record, "Whitsell called me a name Saturday. I told him not to call me that and he called me it again. One thing led to another and we had quite a scuffle."

Whitsell, who did not attend either Monday night's Town Board meeting or Tuesday night's public hearing, told the Press-Record this week, "I got a scratch on my left eyeball and a bite on my right arm. He bit me."

Both officials this week pledged efforts to work together for the good of the township. Whitsell said, "We have to work together. If we do not work together, we can not serve the people."

Bell commented, "I think we both were elected to represent the people and that is what we should do. I disagreed on the cause of Saturday's fight. Bell said, 'I told Whitsell I felt he was trying to run my part of the township and I do not think he should. When I talk to him, he blows up.' So Saturday I questioned him about telling the people that the Teamsters' Local 825 business agent had tried to talk to me and I had refused. That just is not true. That was when one thing led to another."

Teamsters' Local 825 has represented the township's 11 highway employees since January, but failure to reach agreement on a contract led to the employees walking off their jobs March 7. They remained on strike this week.

Whitsell said Saturday's heavy snowstorm led eventually to the fight. He said he and Bell previously had talked about the union situation, but that was not the issue Saturday.

"The way our system of government is going, I get the blame for everything even though I have no control over the highway department. Saturday everyone started calling me and my family with snow removal problems."

"It seemed as if Bell's home but no one answered

Price favors broader freedom of information

On the House floor Congressman Melvin Price of this district has spoken in favor of several amendments to the Freedom of Information Act, which gives a citizen the right to request inspection of certain government records.

Rep. Price said the agency actions under the Act have sometimes been inconsistent with the Congressional purpose, and that the amendments would remedy this.

"For example," he said, "in a situation where information is needed quickly, an agency can effectively deny the request by delaying its response."

"To preclude this kind of event, the bill provides a time limit of ten days for a response to original requests for information."

Another problem is the meaning of "identifiable record" under the Act, Price noted.

If an agency determines that a record is identifiable only by specific title or file number, a citizen who has only a description of the record might be unable to obtain it even though it is apparent what he is requesting.

The bill provides that an agency may not require specific title or file number as the sole means of identification.

Rep. Price said these and other amendments included in the bill would guarantee full protection of the law to every citizen affected by agency action.

Rep. Price has reminded local businessmen that a representative of the U. S. Small Business Association is available for consultation in East St. Louis on the first Thursday of each month.

"The representative will counsel small businessmen regarding their business needs and financial assistance programs available through SBA," he said.

The SBA representative conducts the services at the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, 234 Collinsville Ave.

Price has sponsored a bill in an effort that recipients of veterans' pensions will not have the amount of their benefits reduced because of increases in monthly Social Security benefits.

"As the system operates now," explained the local Congressman, "whenever Social Security payments are raised, the Veterans Administration decreases the benefits of veterans on Social Security. Thus they receive no benefit from the Social Security increase."

"There is no justification for this policy," he said.

"A veteran should not be penalized simply because he is receiving a pension. Congress intends that the Social Security increases benefit everyone, and this legislation will see to it that they do."

Disaster loan deadline soon

Wallace S. Keyser, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, has announced that April 2 is the deadline for farmers to submit applications for FHA disaster loan benefits.

Farmers in designated counties who suffered property losses, crop losses or reduced yields due to 1973 floods and heavy rains may be eligible for $5,000 reimbursement for expenses they incurred on damaged crops or other property.

In addition to the $5,000, loans may be available at 1 per cent. Application forms may be picked up at Agricultural Stabilization offices or by contacting the Farmers Home Administration, Fairground Road, P.O. Box 246, Nashville, Ill. The telephone number is (618) 327-8895.

4 1/2 million car licenses

Michael J. Howlett, secretary of state, reports an increase in 1974 license plate sales to date over 1973, due primarily to increases in license sales and exchanges and banks.

Sales for 1974 have reached 4,596,610, an increase of 164,562 over the 1973 total of 4,431,198. Currency exchanges have sold 401,181 plates, an increase of 77,198 over last year, and banks have sold 1,766,609, an increase of 109,673.

The only other increase so far over 1973 total sales comes from plates mailed from Springfield. To date, 1,280,668 have been mailed, an increase of 76,966.

Shriners set blood donor record

A record-breaking turnout of Tri-City Shrine Club members and friends assured themselves, their families and youthful burn victims a sufficient supply of blood to meet all contingencies in the next 12 months at the most successful blood bank program to be sponsored by the club in the past four years.

Avery Schermer, club blood bank chairman, said a total of 140 persons contributed blood Tuesday at Nameoki United Methodist Church, topping the established quota for the first time since the donor program started.

In previous years, the Shrine group was required to arrange a second clinic within the same 12-month period to achieve its goal.

Star donor at the Shrine's clinic was Mrs. Katie Shockley of Pevely, Mo., who was one of the first severely handicapped youngsters ever to receive treatment at the Shrine's Hospital for Crippled Children, St. Louis, in 1923.

Mrs. Shockley contributed her 12th pint of blood Tuesday, recording the 14th gallon she has donated since beginning her personal repayment project as a 17-year-old high school student.

The Missouri resident has a brother Raymond Boss, a twin sister, Mrs. Kathleen Grammer, and an aunt, Mrs. James Johnson, all residing in Granite City.

Schermer met Mrs. Shockley accidentally a few weeks ago while she was shopping at Schermer Bros. Market, 12th Street and Madison Avenues. She disclosed, in conversation, that she had been taken to Shrine's Hospital as a child for orthopedic treatment to correct a serious birth defect in one hip.

Since the surgery and treatment were successful, she has been able to lead a normal life, she related to Schermer. Mrs. Shockley is the mother of three grown children, drives her own car and has been employed for 25 years as a general communications operator at the U. S. Army

FORMER SHRINERS' HOSPITAL patient, Mrs. Katie Shockley of Pevely, Mo., is the first donor at the Tri-City Shrine Club's blood bank program held Tuesday at Nameoki United Methodist Church. Interested onlookers are Shiner Irvin Slate, left, and Al Schreiber, Tri-City Shrine Club president. Miss Mary Jack, R.N., supervises the procedure. A record-breaking number of donors assured themselves, their families and youthful burn victims an adequate supply of blood for the next 12 months. Mrs. Shockley's donation completed the fourteenth gallon of blood she has contributed, starting at age 17.

Communications Center, 12th and Spruce streets, St. Louis. Al Schreiber, Shrine Club president, said an extra bonus from the blood bank is the program will cover the blood needs of youngsters who may be sent to the Shriners Burns Center in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Several seriously injured children from this area have been taken to the Cincinnati center by local Shriners and have required between 20 and 30 pints of blood to help speed their recovery, the officer said.

lot of calls" in opposition to the proposed ordinance.

"It is my belief that we need some kind of a bill with reasonable guidelines, but there are a number of things in this ordinance that I don't think we can live with," Kelly said.

He explained that he had asked City Attorney George Filcoff to provide a minimum housing standards measure that would establish guidelines under which housing conditions could be maintained at a fair level, and that the ordinance submitted to the council was based on a model bill suggested by the federal government.

Kelly said he did not believe "we should be so specific about room sizes, closet space and the number of bathrooms required." He said another faulty point in the ordinance was its failure to specify the length of time for which any property inspection would be effective.

On a question by one alderman, Kelly admitted that the ordinance was introduced would require a new inspection each time property was occupied, even if those occupancies were only a matter of days or weeks apart.

Filcoff told the council that the ordinance was "inadvertently" placed on first reading in the March 18 session, a meeting at which Filcoff was not present. He said it was a model of the federally proposed ordinance and that it had been intended for reference to council committees for study when he left it with the city clerk.

Alderman Sam Whitmer described the ordinance as "far too tough" and said he felt the council should place the ordinance on second reading and reject it "so that we can start all over again."

He said he did not want to merely refer the matter to committee for revision "because then it could be brought back in here on second reading and passed the same evening."

Alderman Ronald Coleman then moved to table the bill, a motion that was approved unanimously. Alderman Walter Norn then moved to table the mobile homes ordinance, but Mayor Paul Schuler noted "there is nothing to table."

The council then approved a motion to refer the mobile homes ordinance to the council committee.

Several aldermen explained they had received "a flood of calls" concerning the minimum housing standards bill. Alderman William Dallas said "my phone didn't stop ringing. I received 17 calls today (Monday)." Alderman Roy Poulson said he received 22 phone calls, one of them a threatening nature.

As the council complete its vote on the motion to table, a woman in the audience who was among a delegation protesting the measure, obtained permission to speak.

"I just want to ask one question," she said. "What does it mean to say you table it?"

"That means it is dead," one of the aldermen replied.

"That's all I want to know," the woman said, and sat down.

be used by the street department for pumping sewage around breaks. The purchase was approved as an emergency measure to eliminate the time that would be required to call bids. The cost would be approximately $1,500.

The pump purchase was authorized after Lionel Portell, superintendent of streets, told the council that two more sewer breaks—which he described later as "bad ones"—had developed. One of these was under the new Johnson Road pavement in front of Prohardt School and the other is in the easement at the rear of 1501 St. Clair Ave., Portell said.

Portell told the council that two submersible pumps purchased a month ago are in use at sewer break sites and that a third pump is needed as soon as it can be obtained. He said the water table in some sections "Now is higher than it was last spring." Repeated sewer breaks have been attributed to a high water table which causes the lines to "float" and break at or near connecting points.

Council members Monday night authorized a fund transfer of $58,007 from the sales tax and income tax accounts to meet salaries and claims for the last half of March City Treasurer Paul Rutledge said this cuts to $104,007 the remaining balance in funds available for operating costs of the city's major departments.

Although the city will receive approximately $100,000 in state sales tax and income tax allocations during April, city officials said they would need to meet salaries and claims for the first half of April are expected to fall short. City obligations average about $350,000 per month.

The lack of operating funds results from the high cost of sewer break repairs which amounted to more than $1.1 million through February, with proposed bills approximating $110,000 scheduled to be presented to the council in its meeting Monday night.

The repair costs have been financed out of general fund accounts since the city has received only $256,000 from the U. S. flood disaster fund which was set up to reimburse cities whose facilities were damaged by 1973 spring and summer floods. Actually, the Army Corps of Engineers has approved $625,000 in claims by Granite City, while city officials maintain the reimbursement should be approximately $800,000.

Mayor Schuler announced that he had requested the St. Louis engineering firm to provide a cost estimate for a sewer survey after Alderman Ronald Coleman Monday night called for "some action to learn what we can do about these sewer breaks."

The requests for legal opinions by the city attorney were made by Alderman Boyd who noted that the city has about $735,000 in federal revenue sharing funds for the fourth entitlement period, yet unbudgeted, which could relieve the pressure of sewer break costs if the money legally can be used for that purpose.

Boyd also noted that some city accounts have surpluses and that if it is legally possible to do so, the city could borrow from these to tide it over the rough spots and then repay these accounts later. Filcoff

SA center site opposed

Petitions containing 150 signatures opposing a Maryville Road and Glory Lane site for proposed Salvation Army community center and corps headquarters building were presented to the Nameoki Town Board Monday night.

The petitions were presented by Mrs. Helen Hawkins, a resident of Dobey Slough and Democratic precinct committeewoman in Nameoki Township, who said the proposed site is part of the area which the state designated as banned for construction until Dobey Slough flooding problems can be resolved.

The petition sparked lengthy discussions of the project with some auditors expressing their approval of the project and some saying they felt the location should be more central to the Granite City, Madison and Venice area.

The petitions asked the Salvation Army to seek a more central location and cited possible adverse effects on drainage, traffic, residential construction and other factors. Salvation Army officials already have said that several other sites are available and have said determination of a site is not a major issue in whether a building will be constructed.

A motion was made by Auditor Eugene Gargac to defer until the April 9 annual town meeting any determination on selecting a contractor for the town hall expansion and improvements. The motion was approved.

W. Lee Adams, auditor, reported engineering studies are being completed on the fireplug location project. The township is using revenue sharing funds for the placement of several new fireplugs, but the best locations have not yet been determined.

Proposed drainage programs for two residential areas east of Route 162 are in danger of being stopped by Granite City efforts and efforts are being made to avoid the roadblocks. Albert Bell, highway commissioner reported.

Auditor Norman Hessler questioned whether the township should be paying its share of the health insurance premiums for township health employees while they are on strike. The board agreed to wait until the premium appears on next month's bill list and vote at that time.

Gargac urged residents of the township to write letters to their state representatives and senators, urging their support of House Bill 2216 which would allow the board to change the salary of the highway commissioner.

Scrap metal drive Saturday

Area residents were urged today to bring any available scrap metal to one of four receiving points that will be maintained in a metal collection drive by the Boy Scouts Saturday. Leo Schermer, special projects chairman of the Cahokia Mounds Council, said the receiving points will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

They will be located at Grant City in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center; Viviano's at Plaza Market, Gaslight Plaza Shopping Center, Pontoon Beach, Memorial Park in downtown Granite City; and Schermer Brothers' Market, 12th Street and Madison Avenue, Madison.

Peter Novacich Sr. dies

Peter Novacich Sr., 54, of 1501 Joy Ave., was pronounced dead at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday shortly after he collapsed at Bowland where he had just thrown his first ball in the Granite City Steel A bowling league play.

Born in Gilbert, Minn., he had resided in this area 51 years. He was employed for 38 years at Granite City Steel.

Mr. Novacich was a member of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church and belonged to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300, Steelworkers Local 67 and the Greater Beneficial Union. An Army veteran of World War II, he served in the European, African and Middle Eastern theatres. He was wounded and received the Purple Heart medal.

Survivors include his wife,

Mrs. Alice R. (Hargis) Novacich; two sons, Peter Jr. and Michael Novacich, both of Granite City; one daughter, Mrs. Ray (Mary Ruth) Romine of Granite City; six sisters, Mrs. Rose Ratkovich, Scottsdale, Ariz., Mrs. Frank (Mildred) Shifter of Madison, and Mrs. Anna Much and Mrs. Catherine Grubich, both of St. Louis, Mrs. John (Antoinette) Klobucher of Chicago and Mrs. Martin (Frances) Chot of Granite City, and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Four arrested on theft charges

Four St. Louis residents were charged with theft after two women entered the Clothes Closet, 2721 Madison Ave., and one left with a leg from a pair of pants hanging down from under her coat at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The women entered a 1961 black auto where a man was waiting in the car and they drove away on Madison Avenue.

Granite City police stopped a car matching the description at 18th Street and Madison Avenue and arrested the four occupants of the car.

Charged with theft were Karen Lomax, 21, Lara Young, 32, Clarence Jones, 36, and Leslie Lomax, 31, all of St. Louis. They were released on $25 bonds each.

Mini-arbitration

for so-called "third-step" grievances where a contract dispute involves only a few employees and the decision will not require setting a precedent.

The new procedure has been used most often for disputes over discipline, overtime claims, work assignments and the application of safety and health rules.

Once a grievance is referred to expedite arbitration, an arbitrator is chosen from an established panel of qualified lawyers.

He hears a presentation of the issues in dispute by local union and company representatives, and mails his decision to the parties within 48 hours of the hearing.

The new expedited arbitration panel in St. Louis may serve other steel plants in this area as well as Granite City Steel.

The following lawyers are serving as members of the panel: Dean Richard J. Childress of the School of Law, St. Louis University, and James D. Eckhoff, Rudolph C. Hasel, D. Monson, Joseph J. Nikka, Josef Rohlik, Peter H. Ruger, Peter W. Salisch Jr., Mrs. Joan D. Watterberg and Harold L. Whitfield.

Mrs. Betty Goldschick of Granite City Steel is serving as administrative secretary for the expedited arbitration procedure.

Granite City Steel, largest steel plant in the St. Louis region, has more than 5,000 employees.

matter to its planning and zoning committee for a recommendation. The committee recommended Monday night that the rezoning from an R-2 (single-family district) to R-3 (multiple-dwelling) district, not be granted.

Granite City Mayor Whitmer said that while he appreciated the time spent by the committee in checking into the matter, he believed each alderman "should vote his own conviction" in the matter.

On a motion by Alderman Gerald Farmley, a member of the planning and zoning committee, that the rezoning not be granted, three aldermen voted against the motion. They were Whitmer and Aldermen R.E. Robertson and Roy Poulos. Voting yes were Aldermen Frank Greenwald, Clyde Boyd, William Dallas, Everett Morton, Emerald Dawes, Steve Basarich, Walter Nann, Rodd Coleman, Farmley and Earl Baker. Alderman Claude Green was absent.

There was no discussion on the request for a use permit to build the medical building on West Pontoon Road. The planning and zoning committee recommended approval of the permit, which carried 9 to 4. Voting against the proposal were Aldermen Whitmer, Basarich, Robertson and Coleman.

Council members also enacted an ordinance which eliminates parking between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. for a distance of 80 feet in front of 2711-2713 Marshall Ave., and fixes a penalty of from $3 to $25 fine for violation.

A speed limit of 25 miles per hour was established on West Street from Rock Road to Union, On Denver from Rock Road to FA Route 151 and on Cuyaga Street from Rock Road to FA Route 151. The ordinance sets a fine of from $5 to $200 for violation.

Landfill to end pact

The city of Madison will need to find a new landfill area and revise its 1967 disposal procedures before the end of this year, Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk told the Madison City Council Tuesday night.

City Clerk John Belcoff presented a letter from Mal Peck, Madison's city engineer, indicating the operators expect to end their agreement with the city under which they used Madison-owned land to return for cash payments and free landfill service. The landfill is now occupying land near the city-owned waste transfer station.

Sasyk said a meeting of the council's landfill committee will be called soon to review the city's obligations to the city and to determine if all there, I knew Bell was at the township office working on his budget, so I went to see him. He told me, 'If you do not like calls, why don't you take your phone off the hook.'

"I told him then, 'You're no highway commissioner. You're a . . . I think he swung at me first and missed. I am not sure.'"

The rift between the two township officials became apparent in January when Whitell first began commenting that he was receiving the blame for problems in the highway department over which he said he had no control.

The split became wider when Bell suspended one highway worker and fired another and Whitell defended the workers against Bell.

When the highway workers walked out earlier this month, Whitell criticized Bell's handling of the union situation and said at that time, "If I had authority to negotiate a contract with them (the highway workers), they would not be walking that (picket) line now. Bell has chosen to exclude me from this matter."

Bell summarized the highway department situation Tuesday night saying the township lacks $50,000 per year of what the workers want, not including overtime.

"The proposed budget has some money in it for the workers, as far as we thought we could go without over-inflating our budget. As long as they are out, my hands are pretty well tied."

He said the union's business agent has not talked to him since the workers walked off their jobs. "I offered to let the men continue to work and make any raises retroactive to March 1, but they walked out instead," Bell commented.

He said at that time the department had 11 highway employees. "Since then I understand a couple have gotten other jobs, so we are talking about negotiations now for about nine people."

Bell admitted the township roads are beginning to deteriorate saying, "There are some areas where the holes are getting pretty bad, but I have no workers and there is nothing I can do to repair them now."

terms of the agreement have been met.

The company said in its letter to the city that "We have not used the landfill for six months, but will continue to put in final cost. It seems proper that we should discontinue cash payments. We will continue to furnish free dumping for your city refuse truck for at least the balance of this year."

Aldermen on the landfill committee are John Haynes, Booker Walton, Mike Sikora and Richard Kisner.

In reference to a Harris School safety and anti-litter program, Mayor Sasyk said "I spoke to the teachers and staff at the Harris School last week and the city in general clean."

"We need to encourage other elements of the city, the businessmen, home owners, churches and other schools to clean up around their areas, pick up the litter and sweep the sidewalks. If everyone does his share, we will have a far better and cleaner community."

Chief of Police Frank Dutko presented the monthly police report for February which said the department had 2,238 road, telephone and logged entries.

The report listed 107 traffic violations and a total of $1,232 collected in traffic and other fines during the month.

A letter from Lt. Col. Donald J. Elmore, commander of the U. S. Army St. Louis Area Region Center, formerly the Granite City Army Installation, was read. Lt. Col. Elmore announced that he has been reassigned and thanked the mayor and aldermen for their friendship and cooperation.

Colonel Harry L. Bush replaced Col. Elmore and is expected to take command this week.

Mayor Sasyk introduced James Greer, 1546 Sixth St., Madison, as the new Khoury League baseball commissioner. Greer commented, "I want to say that I feel Bob Rogers, the retiring commissioner, did an outstanding job. I have always been interested in competitive sports and will attempt to run the best possible program for the children in Madison."

A public meeting was held on the new zoning ordinance and that it will be ready for the council to consider at the April 9 council meeting.

Services held for Mrs. Gatewood, 65

She died March 20 at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Survivors include her father, John Gatewood Sr., Madison, a sister, Miss Eddie Mae Gatewood, Detroit, Mich., three brothers, John H. Gatewood, Madison, Joseph Gatewood of Detroit, Mich. and Willie A. Gatewood of California.

Madison school board to meet

A special meeting of the Madison School Board to select an architect for a new middle school has been called for 8:45 p.m. today at the board office, 1707 Fourth St., Madison.

The present junior high school is operating in split shifts due to overcrowding. If funds are approved by the Capital Development Board in Springfield, a new school would be built for sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

DAMAGE CONFECTIONERY

Vandals broke eight windows in the office of Reeve's Confectionery, 2801 Circle Drive, by throwing baseball bats, rocks and an old shoe through the glass. Paint also was thrown on the building.

Teachers to hear Bakalis, Dixon, Simon at convention

The Illinois Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, will hold its annual convention Friday through Sunday in Belleville, at Augustine's Ramada Inn. The IFT represents 45,000 teachers and other educational workers in Illinois schools.

Delegates will represent local unions from across the state.

The president of the IFT is Robert M. Healey, who also heads the Chicago Teachers Union.

On Saturday, the IFT delegates will hear an address by State Supt. Michael J. Bakalis at 9:30 a.m. prior to their taking action on a broad range of educational issues.

Alan J. Dixon, Illinois state treasurer, will speak to the convention's luncheon meeting Saturday. He is a native of Belleville.

Former Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, who has just won the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 28th District, will speak to the afternoon meeting of the convention.

EPA hearings resume today

Hearings on a petition by Granite City Steel for a third one-year variance to complete installation of pollution control equipment for its coke ovens were to resume at 1 p.m. today at Edwardsville following an all-day session yesterday in which an Illinois EPA official was the only witness.

Dr. John Roberts, manager of the Air Division of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, was called by attorneys for the steel company as an adverse witness—the fifth EPA official to be called by the company since the hearings began a week ago.

Because of the large amount of testimony given in the hearings thus far, three additional hearings to be held Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 4, all beginning at 9:30 a.m., were agreed upon during yesterday's session in the Illinois Room of the University Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Location of the additional hearings have not yet been determined.

On examination by Randall Robertson, attorney for the steel company, Dr. Roberts was asked yesterday whether or not he believed that Granite City Steel is making progress in its installation of pollution control equipment at the coke ovens. He replied in the affirmative.

He also testified as to his personal knowledge of the company's operations to control emissions from pushing at the coke ovens. He said he personally observed on Tuesday that the water spray system on the coke pusher car was not operating.

In response to a question by steel company attorneys as to whether he believed it was possible for anyone to complete control of pushing at coke ovens by Dec. 31 this year—the deadline date of the company's existing variance—Dr. Roberts replied that "it is doubtful."

Open house May 17-18 at Granite City Steel

For the first time in nearly five years, an open house program is being planned for Granite City Steel on Friday and Saturday, May 17 and 18. Employees' families as well as local residents will be invited to attend.

The last such event was a one-day "family day" open house in October 1969. The May open house will allow visitors to see most of the main steel mill operations. Included will be a bus tour of the blast furnace area and walking tours through the blooming Mill, hot strip and basic oxygen areas.

Supplemental tours will be available for those wishing to visit the cold strip, 7A line and No. 6 galvanizing line. Buses, with guides aboard, will transport visitors to the various departments.

A display area at the end of the hot strip area tour will include well-known products made from GCS steel. A special display depicting Granite City Steel's pollution-control efforts will be set up there and distinctive signs along the tour route will call attention to installations that help purify the air and water.

Talk Monday on research

Raymond B. Nixon, an authority on international communication, will speak at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Dome Room of the Religious Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

A speaker in the Fine Arts Lecture Series at SIUE, he will discuss "Cross-cultural Research—Promise or Threat?" The public is invited, admission free, to hear the lecturer, who is marking his 50th year in journalism education.

Nixon will meet informally with faculty and students in Room 1023 of the SIUE Communications Building at 2:30 p.m. Monday. He also will be available for informal discussions from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Tuesday.

IDENTIFY VICTIM

State police yesterday identified the body of a young woman found during the weekend south of DuPont Troopers said Barbara Ann Mingo, 21, of St. Louis, was found with her hands tied in front of her and two plastic bags tied over her head. The case has been turned over to the St. Louis Police Department, homicide section.

plant involved in today's sale was one of the first four major industries built when the new industrial complex named Granite City was in its infancy.

Purchased in 1964 for nearly a half-million dollars by Clarence H. Howard and associates, it was sold in 1929 to General Steel Castings Corp., Edgystown, Pa. With Howard being succeeded as president by Harrison Hobbeltz, Charles Powell Whitehead next advanced to the top office in 1945 and remained until the late 1960s, when Gray succeeded him. The firm became General Steel Industries, Inc., in May 1961.

The plant made heavy steel castings for locomotives, freight cars and railroad passenger cars, utilizing sand molds. Products included body bolsters, frames and parts for wheel assemblies.

For both World War II and the Korean War, the Company's monowheel plant made cast armor hulls and turrets for Army tanks as well as helping produce needed rail cars.

Just as its greatest growth occurred when the railroad industry was expanding, it entered periods of decline when ordering of rail cars was curtailed. It was closed in 1932-34 and also experienced briefer layoffs in the 1950s and 1960s.

General Steel moved its headquarters to Granite City and then St. Louis. It diversified its plants and products, mainly through acquisitions, and decided in 1973 to close two divisions, including the one here.

Under Clarence H. Howard's leadership, the firm had been active in major recreation and commissary programs and, in its early years, sponsored English language classes.

Mrs. Erna Tucker, 66, dies

Mrs. Erna M. Tucker, 66, of 2109 Richmond Ave., who had been ill for five years, died at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday at her home.

She was born in Caseyville and had resided in Granite City 42 years.

Mrs. Tucker was a member of the Nameoki United Presbyterian Church and Collinsville Eastern Star, Chapter 666.

She is survived by her husband, Chalmers Tucker; one daughter, Mrs. George (Merna) Musterman of Florissant, Mo.; a son, Chalmers C. Tucker of Collinsville; two brothers, Charles Thilman of Caseyville and Edgar Thilman of Fairview Heights, Mo. and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Health seminar set for tonight

"Future Changes in Health Care" will be the subject of a presentation by the School of Dental Medicine at the next session of SIUE's University Seminar tonight at 8.

Henry Baich, associate professor of dental medicine, will join with President Scholar Steve Conway in the discussion in the Communications Building Theater. Baich contends that the process of educating the health care professional will undergo profound changes, particularly in the roles of women and minority groups. He believes initial educational procedures must be made more efficient, and that formal education must continue after graduation.

Mosele by 1,214

Last week's Democratic primary victory by Victor J. Mosele over William E. Johnson for circuit judge was narrower than earlier indicated, the official canvass showed yesterday. Canvassers were continuing their work today.

Mosele was nominated 12,179 to 10,965 instead of the unofficial tally of 12,606 to 10,961.

Results are about the same as determined on the March 19 election night, although in some cases the vote totals are slightly higher for both winners and losers.

For sheriff, John Mearns with 17,547 defeated William Kirkpatrick, 4,744, and Thomas Hammond, 8,316.

County Treasurer George Musso beat Michael Henkhaus 14,084 to 12,248.

For county clerk, Miss Evelyn Bowles tallied 16,113 to 8,802 for Von Dee Cruse and 2,940 for Robert Grayson Jr.

For educational region superintendent, Harold E. "Gene" Briggs won over Vasil Eftimov 15,925 to 9,281.

Reward offered for return of painting

An oil painting by Barbara Premier Thoele of Granite City was stolen from an exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Community College in Godfrey, it was reported today.

The painting entitled "Emma" is valued at $350 and was one of four works exhibited by Mrs. Thoele in Hathaway Hall at the college as part of a three-week Feminist Forum symposium—"Women Today."

A reward is being offered by the local artist for recovery of the painting. Anyone with information is asked to call 797-0340.

Honor Steeler cagers Monday

The Steeler cagers of GCHS North will be honored during a banquet in their honor at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the school's cafeteria.

North's basketball squad earned a 14-11 first-year record and handed the state Class AA fourth-place team, Mater Dei of Breese, its only regular season loss, an achievement which earned North statewide mention.

The team's head mentor,

William Ohlendorf, the main speaker, will present special awards to individual players, including the most valuable, the best defensive player and the player with the highest free throw percentage.

Persons wishing to attend the event may purchase tickets from their school's athletic coordinator, Don Deterding, during regular school hours through Monday. The price of each ticket is $2.

BOOK OF ACHIEVEMENTS is presented by

Emerson Grade School's sixth grade representative, Ronnie Pinkston, to Granite City High School North Athletic Coordinator Don Deterding (center) and Steeler Basketball Coach William Ohlendorf, right. The book represents a season-long class project in which students, under the direction of Victor Popovsky, kept scores and statistics of each Steeler game and inserted the information in large circle graphs. North cagers compiled a 14-11 first year record and had one of their brightest moments in defeating strong Mater Dei of Breese. The Emerson activity was part of a learning project. Revive Madison tennis program

While many high school sports programs have continued to thrive each year, the sport of tennis faltered at Madison High School three years ago and then appeared doomed as an athletic event.

On Saturday, a young instructor named Dan Kostencki will revive the activity when he leads the Trojans into competition on the courts at Waterloo at 9 a.m., the first meet of Madison's 1974 ten meet schedule.

A graduate of Granite City High School and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, the Madison High history teacher told the Press-Record, "Tennis is a great sport. Why we have not had a team the past three years is irrelevant because we now are looking toward the future."
"This is my first season as coach," he continued, "and I bring to this position a fair knowledge of the game and a great deal of hope and desire." Kostencki's hopes rest squarely on five sophomores, one junior, two seniors and two freshmen, which include no returning lettermen.

"As the old line goes," stated the head mentor, "this will be a building season."
"To win a meet, each of our players will have to score in the singles and doubles competition."

Prep all-America honors for Simms

Ivan Jerome Simms, 633 Salvator St., Venice, a Madison High School student, has just been named to the Prep All-American Football program for 1973-74, as announced by the editors of Coach & Athlete Magazine.

His selection for the Prep Honor Roll makes him eligible for judging in the Prep All-America Football National Awards—Prep 100 Squad, Super Eleven Team and Cum Laude. In cooperation with the selection committee, the national finalists will be announced in an issue of Coach & Athlete.

Nominations for the 1973-74 Prep Honor Roll were made last fall by high school coaches and athletic directors, college recruiters and sports writers across the country. They were asked to nominate candidates having the best record of achievement in their areas.

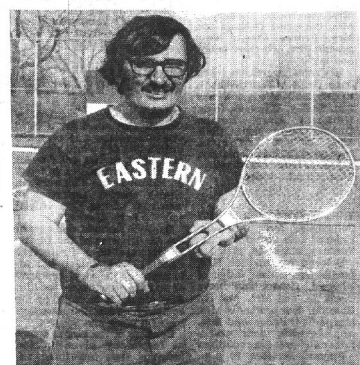

Criteria include outstanding athletic ability based on career records, sportsmanship, leadership and service to team and community.

Warriors face Alton golfers here Monday

The only victor was the snow Monday in the GCHS South vs. Mascoutah golf contest which was to have been held at Arlington Heights golf course. Seven inches of snow this weekend caused a postponement of the season opener.

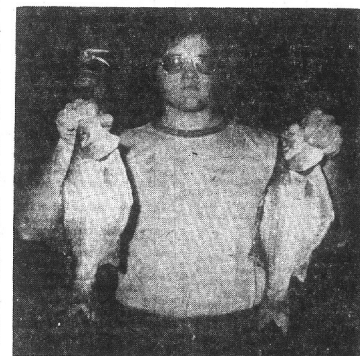

Three returning Warrior letterman—juniors Don Gresco and Mark Harbison and senior Brad Bickhaus—will lead South into its first meet of the year Monday against Alton in a 4 p.m. contest at Arlington.

TROJAN REVIVAL is being attempted by the new Madison High School tennis coach, Dan Kostencki. The head mentor and his Madison seven will compete for the first time in three years Saturday in a 9 a.m. meet at Waterloo. (Press-Record Photo)

GC Squirts second in state hockey tourney

The Squirt team of the Granite City Amateur Ice Hockey Association failed to score a goal but claimed runner-up honors at Oak Park after losing its championship bid 6-0 to Elmhurst in its division of the 31 team regional tournament during the weekend at the Twin Ice Forum.
The local squad won its first-round game by forfeit when Wisconsin's representative failed to appear.
The Squirts then played Deerfield, the defending state champions, to a 2-2 tie on GC goals by Mark Prsha and Joe Schuele.
Elmhurst will represent Illinois as one of eight participants in the national finals to be held next week in Detroit, Mich.

Randy Choat bowls fourth perfect game

"The first nine frames were all solid hits, but in the tenth frame I pulled badly on the ball and thought I would miss the strike."

Randy Choat's bowling shot in the final frame did not miss its target, sending all ten pins sprawling in the lane to register the 23-year-old Granite City's fourth 300 game, and his third in three years.

A resident here since he was a seventh grade student, Randy bowled his first perfect game in Arizona, where he was stationed in the United States Army.

"I've been bowling for the past seven years," says Choat. "The man who got me interested in the game was Max Legate," late Granite Cityan who was a skilled bowler and softball pitcher.

Choat, when not studying business management at Belleville Area College, competes in five leagues, including the Max Legate Memorial League at Bowling Lanes, 5650 Nameoki Road, where he has worked for the past three years as a youth director.

"I usually average around 197 a game," commented Choat, and I feel the law of averages of my bowling is 300 is with me since I bowl 50 or 60 games each week.

"My only disappointment," he added, "was that this fourth one was in non-league competition.

"I received a cash award," said Choat, "but if it had been league or tournament action there would have been other contingency awards as well."

The closest he has come to entering the professional ranks was bowling in Pro-Am events at Kansas City, Chicago and St. Louis.

"I don't have time to turn pro," he said, "it would take me away from my schooling and family by being on the road all the time."

He and his wife reside at 1817 Bremen Ave. Almost as an afterthought, Choat noted with a bit of hesitation, "Maybe this summer after I graduate..."

McMillon, Williams pick Illinois State

Three all-Southwestern Conference high school football players, including Prep All-America tackle John McMillon of Granite City North, have signed national letters of intent to enroll at Illinois State University, Bloomington-Normal, this fall.

Also announced by ISU coach Gerry Hart were halfback Dale Williams of Granite City South and tackle Tom Sims of Belleville West.

The 6-foot, 1/4-inch McMillon is a three-sport star who played both offense and defense for Granite City North's football team.

As a junior, he earned all-conference, all-district and all-regional honors. He repeated those awards as a senior, adding all-regional, all-metropolitan all-state and Prep All-America awards. He was both captain and most valuable player on his team.

McMillon lettered four years in football, three in wrestling and two in track.

Sims is a 6-2, 245-pound athlete who lettered in football, wrestling and track at Belleville West.

"McMillon probably will play defense in college, but has the talent to go either way," Hart says. "Sims is a future physically and has an opportunity to compete for a position as a freshman."

Williams is a 6-foot, 170-pound athlete who has run 100 yards in 10 seconds flat for the Granite City South track team.

He earned three letters in both track and football, and was his team's most valuable football player as well as winning conference honors.

"He is certainly one of the best running backs on the east side of the Mississippi River," says Hart. "He has excellent potential as a running back or a defensive back."

McMillon is the son of Mrs. Rose McMillon of 11 Lakeview Drive, Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Williams, 2329 Kilarney Drive.

Guth elected to racing post

William Guth, 2170 Northland Drive, a lifelong resident of Granite City, has been elected president of the St. Louis Auto Racing Fan Club, which is a charter member of the National Association of Auto Racing Fan Clubs.

Guth told the Press-Record, "One of the first projects I face is heading the protest against the proposed anti-noise and pollution regulations."

The club annually provides bus trips for racing enthusiasts to various national racing events, which include the Indianapolis "500" time trials. Proceeds are presented to the fan club's Injured Drivers' Fund and the Cerebral Palsy Auxiliary.

Guth told the Press-Record, "For the past 18 years, he has operated Guth Kitchen Interiors here."

Belleville East blanked the Granite City South North Stealers 5-0 yesterday at Wilson Park, in the opening meet for local squads.

East missed by one set a clean sweep of the singles, defeating Paul Cooke 6-2, 6-1, and Nick Popelchark 6-0 twice, but East had to go three sets against Dave Haldean who triumphed 6-4 before losing 7-5, 6-1.

North's team of John Foster and Rich Hermes lost 6-0, 6-3 in the first round, and Mike Haldean and Dave Weissenborn dropped 6-1 and 6-0 decisions to their East opponents.

North will meet Alton at 4 p.m. tomorrow on the Redbirds' home court.

Madison wins season opener

Trojan pitcher Jon Henke struck out nine and walked three enemy batters while allowing only two hits to give Madison an 8-6 victory yesterday over visiting East St. Louis Lincoln.

Madison had nine hits and six errors. Lincoln had 12 errors, scoring a run in the first and fourth innings, two in the fifth, and one each in the sixth and seventh.

The Trojans scored first when Daryl Franklin singled in the first inning to drive in Steve McCune who had doubled on a ground ball.

Madison picked up two runs in the second inning off the bats of Kevin Werner and Cedric Wilson, then added two more in the third on a single by Algie Crawford and a double by Henke.

Franklin was sent home, after singling, on a triple by Crawford in the fifth inning. Crawford then advanced to home plate on a single to right field by Werner.

Henke provided Madison's final run when he doubled to right field to drive in Werner in the sixth inning.

Madison will host East St. Louis Senior High at 4 p.m. tomorrow and then will travel to Litchfield at 11 a.m. Saturday for a doubleheader there.

Championship hockey games this evening

Three of the Granite City Amateur Ice Hockey Association's "B" division squads will square-off on the ice with opponents today at the Wilson Park Ice Rink in the championship rounds of the Granite City "B" Tournament.

The Granite City Squirts downed Clayton 6-2 to advance against Valley today at 5:30 p.m., and the local Pee Wees defeated Spanish Lake 4-1 to meet Kirkwood at 6:45 p.m. today.

Clayton beat the Granite City Bantams to meet Creve Coeur for that division's title at 8 p.m. today and the Granite City Midget squad, after a 3-1 victory over Valley, will challenge Spanish Lake at 9:15 p.m. today in that division's championship game.

Dragsters to compete here

The United Drag Racers' Association will hold its double A fuel dragster championships Sunday at St. Louis International Raceway south of Madison in which eight, the association's top point racers competing for the title and prize money.

Speeds of 230 miles per hour are expected to be reached by the top fuel rail cars during the competition.

The track also will hold eliminations in all trophy classes as well as in super street, stock and select money brackets. Gates will open at 9 a.m. Sunday with eliminations at 2 p.m.

Second in meet

The Pee Wee "B" squad, 11 and 12-year olds, of the Granite City Amateur Ice Hockey Association took runnerup honors during the weekend after being defeated 1-0 by West County in the championship game of the Winterland Invitational Hockey Tournament at Creve Coeur.

The local team captured three consecutive games in the two-week tourney to earn the right to meet West County for the title.

The game would have gone into sudden death overtime, but West County scored a goal in the waning seconds to win.

Cougars win two

The SIUE baseball team won twice in Clarksville, Tenn., Wednesday, 8-6 and 5-4 over Austin Peay. The victories improved the Cougar season record to 4-3.

FACES 3 CHARGES

Charles Lee Mitchell, 35, of 315 Watson St., East St. Louis, was arrested by Madison police Wednesday afternoon and charged with burglary, conspiracy and theft. Mitchell allegedly entered the car of Sharon Sherin, 1509 St. Clair Ave., while it was parked in the 1400 block of Third Street, Madison, and stole her purse.

Volleyball playoffs tonight

The Granite City Park District's co-ed volleyball league leading Knights of Columbus, 29-7, will meet Pizza Hut at 7 p.m. today at the Lincoln Place Community Center in the opening game of the season playoffs.

After Monday's makeup contests both Dan's Chik and Pizza Hut fell into a third place tie in the standings with identical 14-22 records.

A flip of the coin broke the tie, with the loser, the Knights of Columbus, meeting the league leader.

Dan's Clark will face Brothers Two at 8 p.m. today in game two. Victors of both contests will meet at 9 p.m. for the playoff championship.

Monday's results were Knights of Columbus over the 15-10, 15-11, 13-15, and Brothers Two over Dan's Clark 15-13, 15-12, 13-15.

Tax tip—Don't overlook any possible exemptions

An exemption of $750 for each dependent can help cut an individual's income tax burden, so it's important not to overlook any of the exemptions available.

A taxpayer's first exemption is himself, and if he is at least 65 years old by the last day of 1973 the $750 exemption is doubled. If the taxpayer is also blind, he is entitled to a third exemption.

Young children, of course, are dependents. The dependency continues beyond age 19 if they earn less than $750 a year, derive more than half their support from the parent-taxpayer, and do not file a joint return of their own.

If the child is a full-time student, the $750 gross income test does not apply, regardless of age.

The rules applying to natural children apply also to step-children and those who have been adopted.

Any person who is a member of the taxpayers' household and meets the citizen or residence, income, and support requirements—and does not file a joint return of his own—can be taken as a dependent.

In the case of parents, children and certain other close relatives, it is not necessary that they live with the taxpayer. If one shares with others in the support of a parent or other dependent, with no one individual providing more than half the dependent's support, it is permissible for one of the contributors of more than 10 percent of the support to take the dependency exemption each year.

The others have to declare on Form 2120 that they will not claim an exemption for the individual that year. These forms are filed with the return of the person who claims the exemption.

Any otherwise qualified dependent who was alive at any time during 1973 may be taken as an exemption.

This applies to one who might have died on Jan. 1 and to one who was born as late as Dec. 31. If a spouse died during 1973, one may still file a joint tax return with the deceased spouse unless the taxpayer remarried before the New Year.

Investigations sparking legislation on racing, securities, drug abuse

The Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission in a report to the General Assembly says it has completed five investigations assigned to it by the legislature and in the coming months will complete three more.

Co-chairmen of the commission are Sen. Philip J. Rock, D-Chicago, and Rep. Joseph G. Sevoik, R-Berwyn.

In its report the commission said that from July 1, 1973, to Dec. 30, 1973, it expended $18,373 for the various investigations. This includes salaries and other commission expenses.

The completed investigations include:

- Illinois horse racing.
- Illicit traffic in stolen securities.
- Illicit and licit traffic in fireworks.
- Deaths at the Elgin State Hospital.

Reports on the latter two will be forthcoming shortly. The horse racing report has been presented.

The commission also is currently carrying on an investigation dealing with redistribution of stolen property. This investigation probably won't be completed until the end of this year, but an interim report may be made.

The commission expects to sponsor legislation in the spring session of the General Assembly to cover medical prescriptions for controlled substances, plus fireworks and other subjects.

The LIC also will introduce legislation this spring dealing with horse racing in Illinois. The bill is the outgrowth of an extensive look at horse racing industry in Illinois by the commission.

The proposed legislation would rescind the three current statutes dealing with horse racing and establish a new one, placing all three into one.

Within the next few months the commission hopes to complete investigations dealing with the abuse of medical prescriptions for controlled substances; any irregularities concerning construction of residences for three state university presidents; and alleged "red lining" practices by financial institutions in rejecting home improvement loans.

Investigations conducted by the commission are assigned to it by either house of the general assembly. This can be through bills passed in the General Assembly or by resolutions adopted in one chamber or the other.

The commission's membership is made up entirely of legislators.

8-week Youth Conservation summer camp being offered

Application blanks for participation in the Youth Conservation Corps Summer Camp are available from the U.S. Youth Conservation Corps, P.O. Box 2973, Washington, D.C. 20013, or the Illinois recruiting agent, Ronald D. Johnson, Superintendent of Parks and Memorials, Department of Conservation, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

The deadline for applications is April 15, 1974.

The Youth Conservation Corps program, jointly sponsored by the U.S. Department of Interior and Agriculture, is designed to: (1) accomplish needed conservation work on public lands; (2) provide gainful employment for young citizens from all walks of life; and (3) develop an understanding in participating youth of the nation's natural environment and heritage.

There will be coeducational camps, female camps and male camps.

Camps will be either residential (live-in) or nonresidential (live at home—commute to work).

The capacity of a residential camp will vary from 24 to 50 enrollees in facilities ranging from tents and rough bunkhouses to large barracks-type buildings and college dormitories. Most camps will last eight weeks.

Youths participating in the YCC program this year will receive food, lodging and a salary of approximately $300 for the season in federal camps, with variable sums in state-operated camps.

Eligibility requirements include age (15 through 18), interest in conservation of the nation's natural environment, no history of serious criminal or antisocial behavior, possession of permits in states where required, and a Social Security registration.

Youth orchestra auditions

Open auditions will be held for all sections (except piano) of the St. Louis Symphony Youth Orchestra on Sunday, May 19, beginning at 9 a.m. at Powell Symphony Hall.

Students in the metropolitan area, ages 12 through 21, are eligible for the 125-member orchestra, which is conducted by Leonard Slatkin, associate conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Audition applications may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Mrs. Edith Hougland, 7150 Wise Ave., St. Louis 63117. For further information, applicants may telephone orchestra manager Mrs. Hougland at 644-1086.

The Youth Orchestra was founded four years ago by Slatkin to familiarize talented young musicians with the environment of a professional orchestra and its repertoire.

The orchestra, sponsored by the Women's Association of the St. Louis Symphony Society, presents three concerts annually and rehearses weekly.

Appraisal talk

A monthly meeting of Southern Illinois Chapter 152 of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers will be held Tuesday, April 2, at Augustine's Restaurant, Belleville, at 7:15 p.m. P. George Opella, district governor of SRA, and an authority on appraising, will discuss "Appraisal of Residential Subdivisions."

Passenger hurt

Miss Pamela Maxwell, 20, of 88 Kaseberg Park, Pontoon Beach, was injured in an auto accident at West Pontoon Road and Melrose Avenue at 6:35 p.m. Monday.

She was a passenger in the car of Carol Consiglio, Godfrey, which was damaged in an accident with the car of Gene DeRuntz, 4609 Maryville Road. DeRuntz was charged with following too closely.

Miss Maxwell was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital after the accident. X-rays were taken of her skull and spine and she was released.

HURTS NECK, BACK

Treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital during the weekend for neck and back injuries sustained in an auto accident was Carl Clark, 1718 Delmar Ave. He was released.

Educators honor former resident

Morris Barefield, a former Venice resident, whose teaching career encompasses many different phases, is the recipient of the Illinois Education Association's award for "outstanding efforts in human relations." The award was presented during the IEA's state convention in Chicago.

A son of Mrs. Pearl Barefield, 307 Mercedo Ave., Venice, he now resides in Glenview, Ill., with his wife, Lyle, and their children, Erik, 6, and Myla, 2.

Barefield is a mathematics teacher at New Trier East High School, where he has been a member of the faculty since 1966.

A 1959 graduate of Madison High School and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, where he earned a bachelor and master degrees in science, Barefield was cited by the IEA for his "educational and organizational leadership."

The award stated that he has "emerged as a leader in an area that was predominantly white and has broken new ground for black educators in education."

Barefield has been a guest speaker at several national and regional meetings of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and has served with that organization's Instructional Affairs Committee.

At Glenview, he has been a member of the Glenview Concerned Parents Organization and presently is a member of the IEA for his "educational and organizational leadership."

In addition to his teaching role at New Trier East, Barefield also directs the school's Rights and Responsibilities program for freshmen students and has coached the New Trier football and basketball teams.

Through the school's social service program, the award winner recently was involved in tutoring arts and crafts and is responsible for arranging pupil field trips.

MR. AND MRS. ROY W. MEREDITH, who were married at the Pasadena Presbyterian church in Madeira Beach, Fla. The bride is the former Miss Vicki Duncan, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Duncan, 3246 Franklin Ave.

Miss Vicki Duncan wed in Madeira Beach, Fla.

Miss Vicki Duncan, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Duncan, 3246 Franklin Ave., and Roy William Meredith, son of Mrs. Roy Meredith, Canonsburg, Pa., were united in marriage on Feb. 23 at the Pasadena Presbyterian Church in Madeira Beach, Fla.

Officiating at the double ring candlelight ceremony was the Rev. Llewellyn.

Guitarist John Ritter played the "Hawaiian Wedding Song," "Theme from Love Story" and "Time."

For her wedding, the bride wore a long white gown of chiffon over peau designed with a high collar, bishop sleeves and Empire waistline. The softly flowing skirt extended into chapel length train. Alencon lace motifs accented the bodice and skirt and formed the tightly fitted cuffs.

She wore a matching lace Juliet cap to secure her mantilla veil, edged in a wide band of lace, and she held a bouquet of Majestic daisies.

Mrs. Sherry Wilson of Granite City, a sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Miss Candace Boston and Mrs. Pam Heacon, both of St. Petersburg, and Miss Darla Walton of Granite City.

The bride wore identical styled, gowns in rainbow colors of green, blue, yellow and pink crepe, created in an Empire design.

Dawn Wilson, a niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She was dressed in a long flowered frock of multi color pastels and she carried a basket of rose petals.

Mike Dobronski of New Jersey attended the groom as best man. Denny Meredith, brother of the groom, from Canonsburg, Jerry Duncan, the bride's brother of Granite City and Al Torchia of St. Petersburg, were groomsmen.

Cathy McComey attended the guest book at a reception held at the St. Petersburg Women's Club on Snell Isle.

A rehearsal dinner was given at the Kapok Tree on the evening preceding the service.

A graduate of Granite City High School, the former Miss Duncan also is a 1971 graduate of Eastern Illinois University, at Charleston, where she received a B.S. degree in education. She presently is teaching at Blanton Elementary School, St. Petersburg.

Mr. Meredith was graduated from Canon McMillan High School in Pennsylvania and from St. Petersburg Junior College and Florida State University in 1973 with a degree in marketing. He now works at Surrey's Tyrore Square Mall.

The couple is residing in Madeira Beach, Fla., following a wedding trip to Disney World.

Out-of-state guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Duncan, Jerry Duncan, Mrs. Sherry Wilson, Dawn and Danny Wilson and Miss Darla Walton, all of Granite City; Mrs. Roy Meredith of Canonsburg, Pa., and Denny Meredith, Mrs. Anna Skiddle and Gary Rubis.

BPW gives awards, elects officers

An awards presentation and election of officers highlighted the March dinner meeting of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club at Charlie's Restaurant.

Guest speaker was Bob Baker, Radio WGN station manager, who spoke on "Public Relations." He noted that each individual is a public relations agent by projecting one's own image to others.

Mrs. Pauline Weir, dinner chairman, presented appreciation plaques to William "Mike" Ebersold, city clerk of Venice and a trustee of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District board, for special services to the club; and to Radio Station WGN for "outstanding publicity during 1973." The latter award was accepted by Baker.

Trophies were awarded to Mrs. Valerie Lewis Evansenden, Press-Record women's editor, for "outstanding news coverage of the club's activities," and to Mrs. Shirley Adams, WGN sales manager and a director of the Granite City BPW Club, for "outstanding publicity given the club via radio."

Mrs. Lorene Sadrakula, scrapbook chairman and recording secretary, also received a trophy for compiling the club's historical record which won the top award in District 14 and is entered for state honors at the Illinois

Federation's convention set April 25 to April 28.

Officers elected to guide the BPW club in 1974-75, are: Miss Annette Smith, president; Mrs. Rosemary Basenden, president-elect; Mrs. Sylvia Wright, first vice president; Mrs. Sandra Tadlock, second vice president; Mrs. Ruth Walk, treasurer; Mrs. Lillian Naeve, recording secretary; and Mrs. Genevieve Haddix, corresponding secretary.

Chosen to serve for three-year terms on the board of directors were Mrs. Lois Wetton and Mrs. Geraldine Brandley.

The new executives will be installed May 8 at a banquet at the Sunset Hills Country Club. Mrs. Lili Marzluft, retiring president, announced.

Three new members were accepted into the club. They are Mrs. Karen Bridick, Mrs. Frieda Scott and Mrs. Georgianne Galardi.

Selected as delegates to the Illinois BPW state convention in April at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel, St. Louis, were Mrs. Marzluft, Miss Smith, Mrs. Weir, Mrs. Mary Bateson, Mrs. Tadlock, Mrs. Basenden, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Haddix, Mrs. Edna Kohlbrecher, Mrs. Emylee Alford, Mrs. Ruth Milhouser, Mrs. Gladys Newman and Mrs. Marionrose Lambert. Alternate delegates elected were Mrs. Brandley, Mrs. Walk, Mrs. Louise Lewis and Mrs. Ann Grakland.

Mrs. Alford, a member of the Tri-Cities Area YMCA board of directors, urged members to suggest programs of interest and noted that a spring agenda currently is being planned.

The officers were authorized to participate in the Salvation Army's capital fund raising drive to construct a new center through an open pledge, with the amount to be determined later.

Mrs. Marzluft said that Mrs. Weir has been appointed to the Illinois Federation's state finance committee, effective May 1. She also named Mrs. Weir, Mrs. Walk and Mrs. Ann Hordesky to an auditing committee.

A candlelight initiation ceremony was conducted by

Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Verna

Mrs. Shirley Carver and Mrs. Beatrice Harvey entertained members of their Training Union during the weekend of the Pontoon Baptist Church.

Games were played and prizes were given. Mrs. Harvey was surprised with a decorated birthday cake.

Attending were Laura Lee Flowers, Donald Marcum, Sherri Marcum, James Carver, Eddie Carver, Amy Carver, Barbara Harvey, Jo Ann Sturdivant, Raymond Barker and Candy Golden.

BRIDAL SHOWER

Mrs. Terri Borth was honored at a bridal shower during the weekend, in the fellowship hall of the Cedar View General Baptist Church.

Decorations were in pastels and wedding bells. The table appointments were candles in hurricane holders with daisy and carnation arrangements.

Miss Penny Gozias was in charge of decorations and games, with prizes going to Mrs. Chris Williams, Shirley Evans, Loudene Stallings and Rita Collins.

Mrs. Borth, the former Terri Dickerson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dickerson. She opened and displayed her gifts.

Cake, gelatin, salads, punch and coffee were served to Mrs. Pat Dickerson, mother of the bride, and Mesdames Davis Hart, Glady Crump, Sheila Moss, Patty Moore, Bonnie Collins, Ann Rabb, Peggy Barger, Mary Dudley.

HOME FROM PARIS

Mrs. Christine Williams and daughter, Patricia Dillender, returned Sunday from an eight-day trip to Paris, France. Miss Dillender was awarded the trip for two through her employment.

They were escorted on the Paris tour by a friend, Joe Vivera Dos Santos, who lives in Paris. Points of interest were the Notre Dame Cathedral, Church of St. Germain, Madeleine Church, Palace of Justice, Louvre Museum, Eiffel Tower, American Embassy, French Embassy, Invalides, Versailles and the Seine River.

pear headed for a political clash over that ever-popular issue — tax relief for the people.

Though the General Assembly won't convene until April for serious consideration of hundreds of pending bills, we certainly have seen the emergence of opposing tax reform packages offered by the Democratic and Republican leaders of the House of Representatives.

And a third tax relief package is expected to be unveiled soon by Gov. Daniel Walker who so far has remained tight-lipped on his program other than to say it will be "broad-based."

As expected, all three officials maintain the state has enough money to finance their proposals.

But Comptroller George Lindberg, who is responsible for keeping tabs on the state's fiscal situation, is not so sure.

Lindberg recently told reporters that increased spending is shrinking the available surplus in the general revenue fund which threatens to dash chances for tax relief this year.

"Under the present circumstances I don't see how tax relief can be assured the people of Illinois," Lindberg said, noting that the available balance in the general revenue fund has dropped in the last six months from $387 million to $327 million with no economic reversal in sight.

The key to the comptroller's concern is simple and non-partisan. The Crystal Lake Republican maintains that tax relief, whatever the form, has a price tag.

A spokesman for Lindberg noted that both House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, and Democratic leader Clyde Chaste of Anna, have taken that price tag into consideration in their respective tax relief proposals. However, according to the spokesman, both plans are about $40 to $50 million off balance.

Since neither Blair nor Chaste has advocated cutting the expenses of existing state programs in other areas, it can only be assumed, said the spokesman, that both men plan to use the state's available surplus to make up the difference.

But as he notes, "You can chew up the surplus if you want, but it is only last for several years."

The Blair tax relief package proposes to eliminate the 2 per cent public utilities on individuals and extend the circuit breaker property tax relief program, now limited to senior citizens and the disabled, to renters and property owners who earn $10,000 or less annually.

Despite the economic uncertainties that were blamed for nonaction on a score of tax relief proposals last year, Blair contends that revenue growth of the remaining non-residential public utilities taxes will make up one-half of the amount spent for relief in the first year.

The price tag for relief by Blair's own admission — $50 million "in new money."

The Chaste program would provide relief to individuals by increasing the standard exemption on the Illinois income tax form from $1,000 to $1,500 at a total cost to the state of some $130 million. However, the loss would be partially offset by a proposed 1 per cent increase in the corporate income tax which would generate an estimated $85 million in new revenue.

The price tag for relief by Chaste's own admission — $45 million.

Last December, Maurice Scott, head of the Illinois Taxpayers Federation and a foremost authority on taxation, said, "Illinoisians should ought to be relieved that none of the so-called tax relief packages offered in the last legislative session was passed."

Scott says his statement holds true for the upcoming session of the General Assembly.

"With the energy crisis and the uncertain economy it might be silly to give individuals a $14 tax break now when we may have to come back in several years with a tax increase of $50 to $60," Scott declared.

He said it might be best to "tighten our belts," and ride the tide of the current economic situation.

Scott points out that under the new state school aid formula, primary education expenses will increase by some $170 million next year. The Department of Public Aid recently announced it will need a $50 million supplemental appropriation this spring and the cost of higher education can only go higher, Scott said.

Specifically critical of the Chaste proposal, Scott pointed out that any increase in business taxes is ultimately passed on to the consumer through higher prices.

"To say that you're going to seek corporate and provide tax relief for individuals — well it just doesn't work that way," he said.

And Scott wasn't the only one to lash out at Chaste's program.

Bill Stowers of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce said shifting the burden of supporting state government to industry is a counterproductive philosophy which accelerates business relocation, prevents expansion and contributes in the long run to economic stagnation.

"Job opportunities for everyone are an obligation of business and that can only be accomplished in a favorable business climate," Stowe added.

He predicted the Chaste plan "is doomed to failure."

Reducing Hypertension Aim of SIUE Research

Researchers at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE) and the St. Louis Veterans Administration (VA) Hospital are hoping to devise ways to provide patients with high blood pressure "an extra set of eyes and ears" they can use to help control their body functions.

Kenneth M. Kleinman, associate professor of psychology at SIUE, and Herbert Goldman, director of the neuropsychology laboratory at the VA hospital and adjunct professor of psychology at SIUE, have evidence that a person can learn to control his blood pressure if he is taught to be aware of what is happening inside his body.

The preliminary results of two years of research at the hospital were presented recently by Kleinman and Goldman at a meeting of the Biofeedback Research Society, in Colorado Springs. The ongoing research is being funded by a grant from the Veterans Administration.

"We hope to demonstrate that people can be trained to lower their own blood pressure without the use of drugs," Kleinman said. "High blood pressure can be treated with drugs, but drugs often have a lot of undesirable side effects."

At the VA hospital, the psychologists are using a blood pressure monitoring device to track a patient's blood pressure moment by moment. The patient receives feedback in the form of a light and a tone whenever his blood pressure decreases.

"We've found that with this kind of feedback, people can produce significant decreases in their blood pressure within a short time," Kleinman said.

The researchers are seeking a practical application of the information they have pulled together. "We are fairly confident that large, clinically significant decreases in blood pressure can be produced with this method of training," Kleinman said, "but we must look at the potential usefulness with guarded optimism. The questions concerning us are whether these decreases can be made more permanent, and of even greater importance, whether they can be made to persist outside the laboratory."

"The techniques are still experimental, but the fact that patients can learn to control their blood pressure by seeing and hearing the lights and tones is important," Kleinman continued.

"In other words, it appears that with feedback, so-called involuntary functions can be brought under conscious, or voluntary, control," Kleinman said.

According to medical statistics, hypertension (high blood pressure) is more prevalent in the United States than most people realize. Kleinman says at least eight million people have hypertension, but in many cases, the persons are not aware of their problem. Another statistic not commonly known is the fact that hypertension is much more prevalent among blacks than whites, the researchers state.

"The problem can be very serious," Kleinman said, "because people with high blood pressure increase the possibility of suffering either a heart attack or stroke. Laboratory tests also have shown that people with high blood pressure indicate decreases in mental abilities."

BLOOD PRESSURE CONTROL—Matthew Kuhn of Florissant, Mo., a research trainee at the St. Louis Veterans Administration Hospital, tests monitoring equipment being used in a research project to determine if a person can learn to control his blood pressure if he is aware of his condition moment by moment. The research is being conducted by Kenneth Kleinman, associate professor of psychology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and Herbert Goldman, director of the neuropsychology laboratory at the VA hospital and adjunct professor of psychology at SIUE.

"In other words, it appears that with feedback, so-called involuntary functions can be brought under conscious, or voluntary, control," Kleinman said.

According to medical statistics, hypertension (high blood pressure) is more prevalent in the United States than most people realize. Kleinman says at least eight million people have hypertension, but in many cases, the persons are not aware of their problem. Another

A POLYGRAPH MACHINE at the St. Louis Veterans Administration Hospital records blood pressure in a research project being conducted by psychologists from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Operating the machine is Muriel Snow of St. Ann, Mo., a psychology technician at the hospital. The research indicates a person can be trained to lower his blood pressure without the use of drugs.

STUDENT WORK POSSIBILITIES are explored at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville by Karen Smith of Belleville, Ronni Mayer of O'Fallon, both seniors at SIUE. Job listings are posted on a bulletin board in the hallway outside the Student Work and Financial Assistance Program offices, enabling students to learn about work opportunities both on and off the campus.

Walker's appointment of out-of-staters resented

By AL MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — Although Gov. Daniel Walker points with pride to the men and women he has assembled in his cabinet, they have one characteristic which is most unpopular among many of them: they are out-of-state.

Six directors of major state agencies are not from Illinois, and dozens of other top aides and administrators had no roots here before their appointment.

"As a citizen of Illinois, I resent it," is how one politician puts it. "Doesn't he have any confidence in Illinois people?"

In a few cases, the out-of-state director has brought with him several top aides from his home state. The corrections field for example is filled with people from Minnesota and Pennsylvania.

David Fogel, who was rejected by the state Senate as director of the Department of Corrections before he was appointed executive director of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, is from Minne-

2 boys beaten, hospitalized

Robert O'Dell, 14, of 23 Parktowne West Mobile Home Park, and Tom Roberts, 15, of 30 Parktowne West, were beaten at 6:30 p.m. Monday after they attended an event at Granite City High School South. They said they were walking when an ice ball was thrown at O'Dell, striking his mouth. He approached the boy who threw the ice and another boy grabbed O'Dell's hair and held his head down while another boy struck O'Dell's face, the youths reported.
Roberts said he tried to assist and also was struck on the face. Roberts was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for a contusion to the right side of his face and O'Dell was treated for a contusion around his right eye and abrasions to his right cheek. X-rays of both youths were taken and both were released.

Press-Record Youth FocusPerfect grades for 2

For perfect "A" records during their first semester in the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, 164 freshmen are being honored by the UICU Mothers Association. Included are Granite Cityans Gary L. Loy and Ralph F. Reeder, GCHS graduates.

The 98 men and women come from 108 Illinois and five-out-of-state high schools. They are among 6,225 new freshmen who entered UICU last fall.

Academic excellence of the new freshmen is in part a reflection of preparation in their high schools, and the Book Award recognizes the role of these schools in the achievement.

A book, selected by the school, is given to the Mothers Association, with a book plate naming the student and citing his scholastic accomplishment at UICU.

Presentation to the school usually is by a county chairwoman of the Mothers Association.

Since the Book Awards were established in 1963-64, the honor has been accorded to 1,186 new freshmen of 58,381 enrolled in UICU during this time.

GCHS-S speech team to state competition

A Granite City High School South debate team including Mike Siebert and Mark Voegelé will participate Friday and Saturday in the Illinois High School Speech Association state tournament at Bloomington, Ill., high school.

Siebert and Voegelé advanced to the state tournament after a 10-0 win at the sectional debate tournament at GCHS-S during the weekend. Twenty-eight teams from 15 schools participated in the sectional, in which Belleville-West also had a 10-0 win and will send a team to the Bloomington competition.

Debbie Velez and Cindy Allen of the GCHS-S enties had a 9-1 score in the sectional competition at South during the weekend. Teams from Lincoln, Belleville-East and O'Fallon high schools also advanced teams to the state tournament.

2 seek title

Marilyn Denise Bess, 2515 Woodlawn Ave., and Diane Elaine Parrish, 2544 Waterman Ave., both of Granite City, are competing for the title of Ms. Downtown St. Louis for 1974.

The former represents the Mayfair Hotel. Entries total a record 28. The winner of the title will be elected at Gala Night, Monday, April 15, at Stouffer's Riverfront Towers.

Each contestant is a representative of a member firm of Downtown St. Louis, Inc., sponsor of the competition. City, state and federal government agencies also were eligible to enter one contestant who works in downtown St. Louis.

Preliminary judging was based on intelligence, poise, grooming, appearance and speaking ability. The competition was open to women 18-35 years of age regardless of marital status.

Kutosky earns master degree

A total of 560 students became eligible for graduation at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, on completion of the winter quarter this month. Among them is Joseph A. Kutosky, 2963 Washington Ave., earning a master degree.

The list includes 463 bachelor, 83 master and 14 doctor of philosophy degrees. Graduates will receive diplomas in the mail. They may return to CSU for the formal commencement ceremony in June.

Detention chief named

Illinois Department of Corrections Director Allyn R. Sielaff has announced appointment of Charles A. Felton, 31, warden of the Joliet Correctional Center, as chief of the agency's Bureau of Detention Standards and Services, under supervision of the chief of operations, effective March 25.

Sielaff also announced appointment of Norman L. Holzhauser, 44, Pontiac, as assistant chief of the bureau. Holzhauser has been employed as corrections compliance specialist for the bureau since March 1970 and has served as acting chief of the unit since Jan. 3.

Felton was appointed warden at the Joliet Correctional Center in August 1973. Prior to that he was assistant deputy commissioner of special services for the Georgia State Department of Offender Rehabilitation. The Bureau of Detention Standards and Services is required by law to set minimum standards for operation of all detention facilities in the state, including city and county jails, lockups and juvenile detention homes.

It also provides training to city police officers and county law enforcement personnel with responsibility for local corrections.

Ernest E. Morris, assistant warden in charge of operations at the correctional center and a veteran employee of the department, has been named acting warden until a permanent replacement for Felton is appointed.

INJURED IN FALL
Mrs. Teresa Duff, 22, of 2309 West 24th St., was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 2:15 p.m. Thursday for treatment of injuries sustained in a fall down a flight of steps. She suffered contusions to both arms and abrasions to the left leg.

Await 20,000 tons of steel for cofferdam

Development news in Madison, St. Clair and Monroe Counties.

A $16 million construction and maintenance program has begun at Amoco Oil Company's Wood River refinery.

Projects include construction of an "ultrafilter" to remove sulphur from fuel oil, construction of a new petroleum chemical additive plant, a complete refurbishing of Amoco's catalytic cracker unit, installation of a new electrostatic precipitator which will virtually eliminate all particulate emissions from the cracker, and installation of a new energy saving waste heat boiler.

The projects are expected to be completed in 1975. Morris Industries, with a paint manufacturing plant in East St. Louis, has purchased Purex Corporation's Lanson Chemical Division, based in East St. Louis. Lanson manufactures specialty resins for the food, textile, electrical and packaging industry. About 45 persons are employed at the facility.

In Belleville, the former Charles Meyers and Co. plant has been leased by and renamed R. Fox, Ltd. Fox intends to continue to manufacture men's pants at the plant, which now employs 90 persons. Expansion of the work force by 60 persons is being planned for the near future. Plans to construct a new aluminum modular home manufacturing plant in Belleville are expected to be announced shortly by Century Homes, Inc. Interim financing details are being finalized, with the bulk of the financing to come through the issuance of industrial revenue bonds.

Granite City Steel has announced permission to install additional environmental protection equipment to further reduce coke oven emissions.

Due to shortages of steel, construction on the replacement lock and dam at Alton will not begin until this fall. Construction of a cofferdam, first step in the project, was originally scheduled for this spring.

Over 20,000 tons of steel will be used in building the cofferdam. The $302 million project will be completed in 1985.

The SIU Board of Trustees has approved development of a new program leading to a bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering.

Although most of the degree-oriented courses are available at SIUE, seven more will be added. The program will be the first of its kind in this metropolitan area. Belleville city officials are planning to make a formal application to the U. S. government for an 85-acre site for municipal park use.

The site, known as the Turkey Hill Radar Station, has been declared surplus by the government. No acquisition costs are involved, although the city would be responsible for developing the park.

Student teacher in Wisconsin

Nearly 145 student teachers and intern teachers from the University of Wisconsin-River Falls are practicing their skills during the spring quarter in cooperating schools across the nation.

The practicing teachers are supervised in the classroom by experienced instructors. Those who student teach spend 10 weeks of the 12-week quarter in their host school. They receive university credit but no pay. Mrs. Marietta Dauwalter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mehlert, 1807 Fourth St., Madison, is student teaching grade 5 at Eastern Heights Elementary School, St. Paul, under the UW-River Falls program.

Annual dinner of Association

The Madison County Association for Mental Health will hold its seventh annual dinner Thursday, April 4, at Reidel's Restaurant on Route 159. A hospitality hour will begin at 6:30 and a hot buffet dinner at 7 p.m.

Dr. Joseph Gruber, director of Alton State Hospital, will be the featured speaker following the dinner.

The April 4 dinner will be the kickoff for an annual fund and membership drive. Reservations are $6 each and each check will serve as a reservation.

The address is the Madison County Association for Mental Health Office, 103 East Vandalia, P.O. Box 8, Edwardsville, Ill. 62025, or contact Homer Malone, Mrs. John Jenette or Beverly Storer may be contacted in Edwardsville.

Dental course

A two-day continuing dental education course in basic principles of periodontal therapy will be presented April 3-4 at Alton by two members of the faculty of the SIUE School of Dental Medicine. Lecturers will be Dr. Stanley P. Hazen, professor and dean, and Dr. Philip M. Hoag, associate professor and chairman of the department of periodontics.

The course will be offered at the School of Dental Medicine at the Alton Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. Dr. Richard E. Coy, director of the school's Center for Professional Advancement, said the course is designed to provide basic information and techniques necessary to diagnose and treat early to moderately advanced periodontal disease.

Applications for enrollment in the course may be mailed to Dr. Coy at the Center for Professional Advancement.

$200 FIRE DAMAGE

An estimated $200 in damage to building and contents was caused by fire which started at 12:05 p.m. Thursday at the home of Linda Householder, 4505 Kirkpatrick. Firemen were on the scene about 40 minutes.

CASH, WATCH STOLEN

Theft of $15 from a cash register and a wrist watch valued at $25 at Goskie's Confectionery, 2700 Edwards St., was reported during the weekend. Entry was gained by prying a rear door.

Parents group plans activities

Parents Without Partners, Eastside Chapter 91, has completed plans for various activities during April, including a board meeting Tuesday at the home of Mariann Hay, 2305 Arnold Drive, and a general meeting at 7:30 p.m. April 8 at the VFW Post 5694 in Collinsville. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Gus Falter. A Saturday night social when members with birthdays from March 21 to April 19 will be honored is planned April 6 at Wayne's Place in Waterloo, club officers announced. The Alton Chapter invited the chapter to join them at the Grafton American Legion Hall on April 13 and a social night at Collinsville Park is set for April 20. An Easter egg hunt for children will take place on April 7 at Woodland Park in Collinsville from 2 to 4 p.m. Persons interested in the organization's activities may call the president, Charlie Sabo, at 876-6350 for more information.

April plans of parents club

A board meeting of Parents Without Partners, Granite City Chapter 470, will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Fred Haldeman, 2131 Washington Ave., according to the president, Walter Bergfield. The general meeting, open to new members, will be at 8 p.m. April 17 at the American Legion Hall, 1835 State St. Other activities planned for the month include two children's events — an Easter egg hunt at 2 p.m. April 7 in Wilson Park, Shelter 8, 2800 State St. Those attending are asked to bring one dozen colored eggs. Women members will contribute a dozen cookies and male members will bring soda. Children also will bowl at 2 p.m. April 21 at Tri-Mor Bowl. Social plans include a dinner at 6 p.m. April 5 at Roderick's restaurant, a Saturday night event April 20 at Lindendale Park, Highland, Ill., and an evening of country and western music on April 26 at Fairview Heights Inn.

Happy Strings present concert

The Happy Strings Junior Tamms of Madison, dedicated to keeping the Croatian heritage and traditions alive, gave their second annual "Beer and Pretzel" concert this week at Croatian Home under the direction of Tom Kalam of Affton, Mo. The "Tiny Tamms" dance and choral group, ages four years and older, was introduced. Many dances and songs were performed. Numbers included a duet by Tiny Tamms Carol Zarr and Stephen Petrunich singing "Ja San Sirota"; Joe Bargiel singing the Croatian version of "Too Fat Polka"; Linda Bilich, Donise Friend, Barbara Karadja and Barbara Zarr, accompanied by the Tiny Tamms, singing "Majko Majce"; and Mike Hagnauer playing and singing a guitar solo, "Big Bad Leroy Brown." The St. Stanislaus Polish Hall Dancers, guest performers, also presented a variety of musical dance numbers under the direction of Mrs. Hattie Mulnick. The Happy Strings currently are planning a joint concert to be held at Granite City High School South auditorium at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 28, followed by music of the Plavi Dunav and refreshments at the Croatian Home in Madison. Plans for the event will be completed at a Parents Club meeting Tuesday.

METRIC, CHINESE COOKERY TOPICS
A representative of the Home Economics Extension office will present a lesson discussion on "the homemaker and the metric system" at 7:30 tonight for the Isabel Bevier Unit at the home of Mrs. Leo Lipe, 1735 Pontoon Road, Granite City. The Trio Unit of Homemakers will meet at noon Tuesday, April 2, at Hope Lutheran Church, 3715 Wabash Ave., for a citizenship topic and demonstration of Chinese cookery.

MARRIED. Marine Private and Mrs. Donald M. Mayes, whose wedding was solemnized at Bethesda Baptist Church, 2707 Nameoki Drive. She is the former Miss Terry McClanahan, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McClanahan, 2900 Circle Drive.

Terry McClanahan and Donald Mayes are wed

Bethesda Baptist Church, 2707 Nameoki Drive, was the scene of the early afternoon wedding on Feb. 23 of Miss Terry S. McClanahan and Marine Private Donald M. Mayes.

The Rev. Ralph Craycraft officiated at the 2 o'clock double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Harold McClanahan, 2900 Circle Drive. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mayes, 1439 Madison Ave.

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss McClanahan chose a bridal gown fashioned of nylon. Chantelle complemented with a cathedral length mantilla veil, bordered in matching lace.

The long gathered sleeves were set in a molded bodice, featuring an intricate lace design on the semi-sheer yoke to form a high neckline.

Tiers of scalloped lace ruffles created the bouffant skirt. Her bouquet was made up of white carnations and yellow roses festooned with white satin streamers.

Miss Marilyn Mayes, a sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a pale pink chiffon gown made with a sheer yoke. Victorian neckline and long gossamer sleeves. The straight skirt was accented by tiny chiffon ruffles.

Miss Cheryl Hunt, bridesmaid, selected a pink

Restoration group hears St. Louisans

Although the goals and objectives are similar in scope, problems which confront the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society of Granite City (DNRS) and the Lafayette Square Restoration Committee of St. Louis vary greatly in magnitude, local society members learned last week.

Guest speakers at a DNRS meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Causey, 2301 Cleveland Blvd., were Bill Keyes, president of the St. Louis organization and his wife, Mary Dean, a past president of the same group.

The two groups share many goals and objectives in common, Keyes said.

He reviewed some programs and problems being experienced by the St. Louis committee, citing such examples as acceptance by the community and area residents, absentee landlords, cooperation with city government, assisting and encouraging people to buy property in the Lafayette Square area and fund raising efforts to finance programs.

A total of 32 members and guests attended the March business session and program.

Plans were made for a spring house on Sunday, May 5. Vicki Melton, publication and ticket chairman, said tickets now are available from DNRS members or by calling 877-4337, or by sending a check or money order to: Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society, Post Office Box 117, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Tickets purchased in advance of the tour will cost $1.50 each. A donation of $2 will be asked if tickets are acquired the same day, Mrs. Melton said.

Five houses and a church will be included on the 1974 tour, she reported.

Mrs. Melton noted that the homes are in various stages of renovation, some are completely finished while others are only partially restored. Among the objectives of the tour is to show the potential of an older home and what can be done with similar dwellings, she reminded the group.

In addition to the home tour, a flea market, craft items and refreshments are planned for patrons, it was announced.

A social hour was enjoyed following the meeting and the host couple served a dessert course.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack French, 2250 Cleveland Blvd., will entertain society members at 8 p.m. Friday, April 19 at their home. Officers and directors for 1974-75 will be elected at the April session.

Area residents interested in the restoration program are invited to attend, Walt Padgett, president, said.

North Band's season finale Tuesday

The Concert Band of Granite City High School North, under the direction of Robert D. Todoroff, will present its final concert of the season at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the auditorium at South High School.

The one-hour program will include works from a wealth of musical periods and forms ranging from the 16th century to modern and popular numbers.

Included in the program will be: "Sicilienne and Finale" from the "Concerto in D Minor" by Antonio Vivaldi; "Four French Songs" by Robert Hanson which was featured by the University of Minnesota Band on its recent tour in the Soviet Union.

"Lyric Overture" by Frank Erickson; "Mosaics in Motion" by Franklyn Marks; "Amphion" by Fisher Tull; "Fiesta Del Sol" from the Mexican Suite by Earle Hagen; "Fantasia on Lady of Spain" by Tolchard Evans, featuring the Latin percussion section; "Star Sounds One," a medley of pop tunes arranged by Jerry Novak and featuring senior percussionists David Krohne; and "Red, White and Blue" concert march by Gerald McCulloch.

Admission is by season ticket, or single admission is 75 cents for adults, 35 cents for students and 10 cents for band students.

Narrator for the musical program will be Lisa Groothuis.

The public is invited to attend the 1973-74 season finale. Admission is by season ticket, or single admission is 75 cents for adults, 35 cents for students and 10 cents for band students.

Cub Scouts hold U.S. flag quiz

"Explaining the Promise" was reviewed by Cubmaster Warren Nash at Monday night's meeting of Cub Pack 8, held at the First United Presbyterian Church.

"America" was sung and the pledge of allegiance was recited, followed by each Cub Scout performing a stunt for the group under Nash's direction.

During a "Do You Know Your Flag?" quiz, the boys answered such questions as the correct method to display and carry the American flag.

The program also featured a skit, entitled "Hello," presented by Scott Foote, Mark Vanzo, John DeShleria and Vincent Shanks. Den Leader Pat Foote was assisted by Mrs. Trout, Richard Foote Sr., Mrs. Charlotte Pyle, Mrs. Imogene Taylor and Bill Glass in directing the skit.

A new set of rules and regulations, adopted by Pack 8, was distributed to the parents.

Nash presided at an awards ceremony, presenting badges to Ronnie Miller, Denner Lab; Tony Trout, scholar activity badge and Jeff Weeks, silver arrow point under Wolf rank.

The cubmaster announced a father and son kite contest in April and a pack meeting on April 22.

The meeting closed with the "Goodnight Cub Scouts" song and refreshments were served by Den 1 and the Webelos.

Crown Easter ham with unusual glaze

This Easter, make the crown ham on your ham something different.

Any one of the following sweet glaze coverings for baked hams will make it super:

—One cup brown sugar, one-fourth teaspoon ground cloves and three tablespoons of thick, concentrated orange juice.

—One cup honey.

—One-half cup orange, peach or apricot marmalade.

—One cup brown sugar, one teaspoon dry mustard, one-fourth teaspoon ground cloves and two tablespoons vinegar.

—One cup cranberry or currant jelly.

—Three-fourths cup crushed pineapple and one cup brown sugar.

—One cup pureed applesauce.

one-half cup light corn syrup and two tablespoons prepared mustard.

To glaze the ham, remove it from the oven a half hour before the end of the time indicated. Pour off the drippings in the pan and save for use in pan-frying and sauces.

Remove any skin. Score the ham at this time by cutting the fat into diamond shapes with a sharp knife. Make uniform cuts a quarter-inch deep.

Spread the glaze evenly over the fat-scored, hot, baked ham. If you wish, you may stud the ham by inserting whole cloves in the center of each diamond after you've applied the glaze.

Return the ham to the oven and complete heating. The surface should form an even brown glaze.

Circle initiates fall bazaar plans

Mrs. Helene Bluffhoff entertained the Every Member Bus Circle of Nameoki United Methodist Church at her home, 1603 Amos Ave., Tuesday evening, Mrs. Alta Stewart served as co-hostess.

Mrs. Frances Reid was welcomed as a new member and prayer partners were revealed and new names were assigned.

Mrs. Beverly Meng gave the lesson on "Hannah" taken from the current study book "Women of the Bible." Prayers were offered by Mrs. Alice Beck and Mrs. Mary Jane Foster.

The birthday of Mrs. Jane Patton was observed and preliminary plans for the annual bazaar in October were discussed. Mrs. Joyce Tracey urged members to contribute additional recipes for the circle's cookbook project.

Twenty members were served a dessert course to conclude the evening.

New GC base commander

Col. Harry L. Bush assumed command of the U.S. Army St. Louis Area Support Center, formerly the Granite City Army Installation, last week.

He replaces Lt. Col. Donald J. Elmore who is on leave pending assignment.

Col. Bush came to Granite City from the Pentagon in Washington, D. C., where he served as assistant deputy director of Defense Intelligence, a joint military intelligence organization in charge of scientific and technical intelligence.

His wife, Mary Olive, will be moving here in a few weeks.

Col. and Mrs. Bush have two sons, Harry L. Bush Jr., a medical doctor at Presbyterian Hospital in New York City; and William, 20, who is a student at Princeton, majoring in urban affairs.

"I am looking forward to working and living in this area," Bush told the Press-Record. "After I got settled I am looking forward to becoming active in the community. I formerly was active in Boy Scout. Right now, however, I am terribly busy here at the installation."

Dillard heads staff for aged

Gov. Dan Walker on Tuesday appointed Irving Dillard, Collinsville, a journalist, author and educator, as director of the Illinois Department on Aging.

Dillard was editorial page director of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch from 1946 to 1957. He now serves as a consultant to the National Council of Senior Citizens.

Dillard replaces Harold O. Swank, who was appointed acting director Sept. 26, 1973. Swank accepted the interim position until a permanent director was selected. Dillard will assume his new post April 1.

No-strike pact upheld in court

Legality of a no-strike pact on nationwide issues with the United Steelworkers was upheld Tuesday in Pittsburgh by U. S. District Judge H. I. Teitelbaum. He dismissed a challenge of the year-old experimental negotiating agreement.

The experimental plan outlines negotiating guidelines for a new contract to replace the one that will expire Aug. 1, 1974. The suit by 35 union members against USW leaders and ten major steel firms sought a referendum among steelworkers.

Madison Rotary hears evangelist

A head in the sand attitude toward the drug program is generally taken in most areas, according to the Rev. Jack Hazelwood who spoke at the Wednesday noon meeting of the Madison Rotary Club in the Madison Recreation Center.

"Half of all the money spent to fight crime by the federal government is related directly to the drug problem," he said. The only effective way to fight drug abuse is to become well informed. Parents, students, teachers and civic leaders need to know the problems associated with drug abuse, the speaker said.

The Rev. Hazelwood is speaking every evening this week at 7:30 p.m. in the Calvary Baptist Church, 3000 Washington Ave. and has been talking at area schools and before several service clubs.

Rotarian Jerry Maeras reminded the members of the April 26 through 28 district meeting to be held in Edwardsville.

Rotarian Wayne Scannell told the club plans for a dance will be announced soon.

Masked bandit wields shotgun

An armed robber took $80 in bills and change from Fisher's Tropical Fish store, 2123 Ames Ave., in the Maryland Plaza Shopping Center at noon Tuesday.

The store had been opened by Mrs. Fred Meyer, owner. A man entered wearing a black ski mask and produced a sawed-off shotgun from under his jacket, asserting, "This is a hold-up."

She put the money in a bag and gave it to him. The robber fled and was seen by a customer running across Pontoon Road and into an alley.

The robber was described as 5 feet, 10 inches tall and wearing a tan jacket and blue jeans. He may have worn glasses under the ski mask.

Bayonet found

Five young people were arrested, four for intoxication, after police stopped the car of Thomas Carney, 17, of 2418 E. 24th St., at 22nd Street and the railroad tracks, at 12:50 a.m. Tuesday.

Officers said they found a bayonet between the front seats of the car and charged Carney with unlawful use of a weapon, and curfew violation.

Meeting changed

The Granite City Park Board will meet at 7 p.m. today at the park office to review bids received for recreational and concession equipment to be used at the park's playgrounds. The meeting was scheduled Wednesday night but it was postponed to permit board members to attend an energy crisis meeting in St. Louis.

GC sells old dump tract

The Granite City Council voted by a slim margin Monday night to sell its city landfill property on Route 203 south of Madison on a bid price of $42,000. The property was located in Canton Township, St. Clair county, and was used by the city for dumping purposes for more than 20 years. The council voted 11 to 2 to accept the $42,000 bid of Hugh Major of South Roxana, who did not state in his offer his plans for use of the tract. Major was the only bidder.

Granite City bought the tract, originally about 22 acres, in the early 1950s for $17,500.

Walter Nann, veteran City Council member, recalled that the property was purchased from Melvin Pashea who included four mules and two dump trucks in the transaction. Part of the tract was sold for highway easements for about $12,000, Nann said, "which means we got $45,000 for the tract and used it for dumping for 20 years."

Nameoki road budget $98,200

The Nameoki Township road and bridge budget was trimmed by $1,700 prior to a public hearing Tuesday night at the township hall.

The tentative $98,200 budget was read by Town Clerk Douglas Teator who conducted the meeting in the absence of Township Supervisor Louis Whitall. It will be voted on by the board of auditors at a later date.

The document was posted at $99,900, but Teator explained that administration expenses had been trimmed by $1,700 since the posting 30 days earlier.

From the administrative appropriations, the board trimmed $1,400 from travel expenses for Albert Bell, highway commissioner, reducing that category from $2,000 to $600. Teator explained Bell will be allowed the use of a township vehicle for the majority of his business travel, thus reducing the amount needed for travel allowance.

The appropriation for office supplies was reduced from $300 to $100. Teator said the majority of the office supplies needed for Bell's department would come from the town fund.

The board of auditors trimmed the appropriation for Bell's bonding from $500 to $300 after the bill for the bonding was received and was lower than had been anticipated.

The revised tentative road and bridge budget is up $1,200 from last year's $79,400 budget. Included is $37,300 for maintenance of roads, up from $27,700 last year. Teator explained that the prices of road materials have nearly doubled since last year, necessitating the increase.

Under maintenance of bridges and culverts, the new document calls for $15,000, up from $16,500 last year. The township has no bridges to maintain and the money will be used to clean and repair culverts, Teator explained.

Another $5,500 was appropriated for purchase of machinery, down from $6,000 last year. Teator said no major new equipment is to be purchased, but payments of about $5,000 on the backhoe, limb chipper and vacuum the township now is purchasing are to be made from this category.

A major jump occurred in repairs to machinery, up from $3,000 last year to $9,000 in the tentative budget. In the past, labor for repairs was taken from other labor accounts, but this year all labor on machinery will be paid from the repairs to machinery appropriation, according to the clerk.

No appropriation is included for maintenance of the building as Teator pledged the township will finance any repairs from the town fund. Last year, the highway department was allocated $1,400 for building repairs.

The $7,500 for drainage along Route 203 was carried over from last year's budget into the new one. No new taxes will be necessary for that item, Teator explained. Under an agreement with Granite City, the township and city will split the additional $15,000 cost of installing larger drainage tiles along Route 203. The state will install the tiles.

The provision for contingencies was increased from $3,750 last year to $3,900 this year. Teator said in the past the township has appropriated about 5 per cent of the total budget for contingencies, but 5 per cent of the budget would be $4,000 and the auditors trimmed that figure by $1,000.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

The permanent road fund remained unchanged at $70,000, higher than the $68,000 last year. Teator again cited increasing road material, gasoline and oil costs for the rise.

The Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund appropriation increased from $68,500 last year to $70,880 in the tentative budget. That figure was not changed before the public hearing.

Teator said the township's percentage into the fund increases each year and that the percentage for each employee increases as each employee's salary rises.

The appropriation of $10,000 for construction of bridges was the same as last year. It also was not changed by the board after posting.

The money will be used to make the final township payment for a new bridge in State Park Place. The township and Madison County split the cost of that bridge.

Teator apologized to those present for not holding two hearings on the budget, one to get citizen ideas on what should be included and the second to review the tentative document.

"In the hustle and bustle of recent months, one hearing was not held," he said.

He pledged citizen involvement in the preparation of the general assistance, town fund and revenue sharing budgets which must be prepared and approved within the first quarter of the new fiscal year.

He emphasized that although some items in the tentative road and bridge budget are higher than will be provided by maximum tax levies, the county clerk may not exceed the tax levy maximums and funds will have to be transferred from other sources if all programs in the road budget are to be fully funded.

The only complaints heard by the board were from Joseph Garcia, president of the Building Service Employee's local which covers township secretaries, and from an on-street street department worker. Both said they felt a larger percentage of the budget should be used for salaries.

Teator said higher salaries may be provided with the assistance of federal revenue sharing, but that would have to be determined when the revenue sharing budget is prepared.

A woman in the audience asked if there were any guarantees that revenue sharing would be used for salaries and Teator answered, "There are no guarantees on anything, No."

The town board of auditors is to act on the road and bridge budget at a future date. When they will vote on the document has not been determined. The board's next meeting will be Monday, April 8, the day before the annual town meeting.

Girl, 5, hit by car, injured

Tina Sellers, 5, of 3223 Maryville Road, Apartment 4, was injured while she was crossing Maryville Road in the 2900 block and was struck by the auto of Harold Dickerman III, 2510 Parkside St., at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Dickerman said he was turning his auto from Parkside Drive onto Maryville Road when the girl ran into the street. The right front of the car struck the girl.

She was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where she was admitted with abrasions and contusions to her right elbow, right knee and right foot.

Dickerman was charged with driving while his license was expired.

Venice youth is indicted

A Madison County grand jury has returned true bills against Kevin Clay Garrett, 17, of 1016 Douglas St., Venice, on two charges of attempted rape.

Two 15-year-old girls said they were walking March 11 in the 1100 block of Calhoun Street in Venice and were chased by a group of boys into a house in the 1000 block of Calhoun Street. The boys ran when the girls screamed, police were told.

Venice police arrested Garrett and five teenage boys after the incident.

Acquisition by Granite City Steel will enable the idle General Steel Industries castings plant in Quad-Cities to be put to constructive use Disclosure today that the 118-acre General Steel Industries plant here has been sold to Granite City Steel is heartening news.

The plant was the scene of large steel castings operations for many years. It has vast enclosed work areas and direct links to railroad and other transportation facilities. It was phased out by its parent GSI firm and much of its equipment was auctioned off in November.

Acquisition of the land and buildings by Granite City Steel will enable the former General Steel plant to once again be devoted to "constructive uses."

Such a prospect in itself is a highly positive development for this community and region. And the fact that the new owners already have a long association here also is significant in a number of ways.

It can be interpreted as a vote of confidence in the Quad-Cities by National Steel Corporation, owner of Granite City Steel since 1971.

Continuation of the Granite City Steel Division's current expansion undoubtedly is directly related to the production increase that has been achieved and the extent of its future expansion also is likely to be affected by the division's performance and profitability.

Idle plant facilities are of no value in providing job opportunities and also are of limited help in furnishing the community with necessary governmental services.

Thanks to today's action by Granite City Steel and General Steel, the large former castings plant west of State Street will not remain idle but instead again will become a busy, functioning segment of this community's outstanding manufacturing complex.

Illusion more than substance to Walker impact on legislative primary

The late-in-the-campaign endorsement by Gov. Dan Walker of State Rep. Horace Calvo of Granite City and Dan O'Neill of Alton has stimulated speculation about what it may indicate.

Rep. Calvo ran successfully for renomination, leading the field. Mr. O'Neill finished third to Joe Luco's second-place finish. Two Democrats were nominated, Calvo and Luco, and now are odds-on favorites to garner two of the three House seats from this district, the 56th, in November.

It is not surprising that the governor supported Rep. Calvo, who had Madison County Democratic organizational backing and was favored in 1974 despite the close primary race of two years ago.

By giving his blessing to some of the experienced legislators around the state, the governor may be encouraging harmonious relationships between the executive and legislative branches in their future deliberations, a highly commendable goal.

But in backing Mr. O'Neill, who is undoubtedly a lame man, Gov. Walker can hardly be seen seeking out the most reform-minded and independently-inclined candidate among the 11 aspirants. Others in the big field would have more nearly matched the new-faces, anti-politics image the state's chief executive has sought to convey.

What Mr. O'Neill had to offer was the widespread belief that he might be on the way to a "victory over the machine." He sought and would have gladly run with organization backing. He didn't get it, and received less than half of the votes cast for Mr. Luco, who had the Central Committee's endorsement.

All of which seems to raise the question of whether the Walker drive for dominance has real substance or is primarily a propaganda effort to convey an appearance of invincibility.

A chain of Illinois newspapers concluded that "the Walker political magic was at least tarnished as candidates he backed ran into trouble all across the state."

A major paper friendly to him said that "Walker had some victories, but many of the people he endorsed actually won, but where he tried the hardest, he seemed to lose."

It added that his "actions in the primary certainly don't merit criticism. He has attempted to make the Democratic party more open and more representative of a wider range of view, and his entrance into the primaries was aimed at that. But the political reality is that he's fallen through the ice, and life for the next two years may be pretty cold."

Just another routine news week: Gov. Dan Walker drove a coal-powered automobile. And Richard Archer, Southern Illinois University Design Department instructor, revealed plans to convert autos so that they can be fueled by wood alcohol created from garbage and sawdust.

Landslides can lead to governmental excesses

By ARCH BOOTH

Executive Vice President,

U. S. Chamber of Commerce

Will we still have the Republican party to kick around after the 1974 elections?

A lot of people are speculating that we might not, and the preliminary report is not reassuring.

Still, Americans have a habit of greatly exaggerating political failures.

After the McGovern

debate—which many commentators ascribed to a "takeover" of the Democratic

wing—there were predictions aplenty that the Democrats were "committing suicide."

Same prediction about the Republicans, following Goldwater's race against Johnson.

And how's this for a chronicle of political failure:

Failed in business in '31...

again failed in business '33...

elected to legislature '34... had nervous breakdown '36...

Defeated for speaker '38...

defeated for governor '40...

defeated for Congress '43...

defeated for Senate '58...

What kind of political future would you give a man like that?

Well, in 1960 Abraham Lincoln

finally won one. The big one.

So I don't think there is much danger the Republicans becoming extinct, even if they have a terrible year at the polls.

There is another danger that concerns me more.

Historically, when either party has been overwhelmingly dominant, the result has been much bad legislation.

Indeed, it is usually public reaction against the excesses of the dominant party that ultimately breathes life back into its moribund opposition.

Our tendency to react against political excess is one of the greatest bulwarks of our liberty.

But rapid swings between political extremes exact price we would be better offering. The man with one foot on hot coals and the other on a block of ice may feel fine

"on the average," but he's suffering burns at one ex-

When the ruling party is confronted with an opposition of healthy size, it is forced to proceed cautiously and to compromise reasonably. That's the way it should be.

The FORUM

Need for Salvation Army expansion

To the Editor:

An open letter to all who live or work in the Quad-Cities—When things are going well we can smile at the world and live a life of secured ease.

That's the way we would want all the time, yet we know that our lives are filled with moments of stress—periods of unemployment, family emergencies that sometimes include natural disasters and even death itself.

To meet these anticipated but always unexpected calamities we establish some sort of a cash reserve—except, for those who for one reason or another use their full resources for daily living.

For these The Salvation Army has extended the helping hand in times of emergencies through grants of food, clothing, shelter and help in counseling.

In addition, the Army has over the years developed other broad programs of Christian compassion that help meet the needs of those who have not participated or have not found fulfillment in other community resources. Participants range in age from children to senior citizens.

Now the programs and services of the local Army Corps have grown beyond the limited physical facilities given them in 1943 by members of labor unions and other interested citizens, located at Nineteenth Street and Grand Avenue, Granite City.

Assessing the demands for program opportunities and demands from the unserved individuals throughout our Quad-City area, the local Army Corps has developed plans for a new program community center that will meet all of today's service demands but enable the Corps to meet the needs of our growing area for many years to come.

Plans call for the present building to be converted to accommodate the Corps social services programs that include the annual "Tree of Lights," "disaster" services, and "emergency services" to both area residents as well as the transient visitor.

If the programs and services of The Salvation Army are to keep pace with growth of our area, more building space is a necessity.

A booklet has been prepared to provide information about the Corps programs and services and of the building needs.

It should be further defined exactly what a "reasonable time" is. I think the ordinance should state "at a time previously set, but not later than the new occupant and the building commissioner."

Your help can make this program a reality, with benefits accruing to our community for many years to come.

Long delay in improving East 23rd St.

To the Editor:

A lady in St. Louis is putting up a fight to get sidewalks repaired.

What does a property owner of 40 years in this city do to get an arterial street paved?

We were told 10 years ago when we purchased our property at 2908 E. 23rd at Edna that money was allocated to pave and curb this street.

This we were told by our aldermen and precinct committee. Later we were told it was used for Johnson Road.

The street has been lightly tarred two times in 10 years.

Our neighbors as well as us pay as much taxes, if not more than, the property owners in Belleville and other areas.

Why should this area be forgotten? Once the Horseshoe Lake Park recreational center breaks, this part of town will be taken care of. Why then? Why not now?

Take a ride through Madison; you'll find all streets paved, with no cats and dogs running loose to destroy what one has worked so hard to improve, especially one's surroundings.

Nor do they see the Madison streets cluttered with debris, as our city is.

MRS. JOHN SCOTT

Gentleman Jim... Record steel shipments new party leader

Collinsville Herald—The most gratifying upset in the March election was the victory of James Chapman of Collinsville over Al Fields, longtime mayor of East St. Louis trying for his "last hurrah."

At first, Fields had not been expected to run. Then it had been thought he had made a deal with Francis Touchette of Centerville for Touchette's support, and that this—plus his machine backing in St. Clair County—would put him in.

Jim Chapman had an organization support in Madison County but faced a "name's the same" confusion in Carolyn Chapman, Belleville reform candidate.

Chapman ran much better than expected in St. Clair, including solid support in Centerville. And he cashed in on the friendships and respect he earned in 30 years in the Courthouse.

He had retired undefeated from the office of Madison County recorder of deeds, and had previously relinquished treasurership of the County Democratic party on good terms with everybody.

Fields, a well-known, trusted, unobligated politician that Gov. Dan Walker is reputed to encourage. Although he had the unanimous support of the Madison County organization, he was so big that it is obvious he doesn't owe anybody anything, he would have won on his own personal popularity.

He knows everybody who is anybody in the party and has a wealth of political savvy. He is a gentleman and a diplomat.

That puts him in a beautiful position to get some things straightened out with the Walker people in Springfield.

It is no secret that they have flip-flopped on patronage matters from the Touchette people to Fields and back again, and that the Madison County machine doesn't rate high with them.

We think they will like dealing with Jim Chapman. That's going to help this area get better treatment from Springfield.

Permits would expand bureaucracy

To the Editor:

The "Occupancy Permit" outlined by Alderman Poulos should be studied carefully by all of the aldermen and people of the city before it is passed into law.

It seems that the demands of this plan are reasonable, moral and decent in the short run. Yet, in the long run, the plan may be detrimental to the city.

1) The plan calls for a $15 fee for each inspection of a dwelling, plus a $2 fee for an occupancy permit. The question arises: "Who will inform a new, incoming occupant of the ordinance, and how is he to be informed?" I also question the reason for such high cost of inspection.

2) The ordinance states: "The Building Commissioner is authorized to enter any dwelling, dwelling unit, multi-family dwelling, rooming house, or premises at any reasonable time for the purpose of performing his duties under this code."

3) The plan states: "The ordinance sets out that the new law does not affect existing occupancies, but will be applied to all occupancies following adoption of the ordinance."

This statement leaves me uncomfortable and I must ask, "Does not each residence (home or building) have the potential of becoming a new occupancy? Would that not mean, then, that every residence will be eventually inspected?"

In the long run, this would be impractical and tend to fatten the bureaucracy through imposed fees and paper work, but build an efficient building commission office with of

This statement proves to be less arbitrary and there would be less opportunity for intrusion on the part of the building commissioner.

Also, I do not believe the building commissioner should be authorized such "power of intrusion" because I do not see it as a necessary extension of his position.

I would certainly think it an intrusion if I were a new resident of this area. It would not leave a person with a good impression of Granite City public officials.

Many are not posted until after they have been filled. In the past, the taxpayers were always informed of the name and qualifications of those who accept positions. In some instances, even this is not being made public.

It is apparent that nepotism prevails here. It's not so much a matter of what you know, but to what you happen to be related.

An example of patronage is the hiring of teachers, in some instances, out of their area of concentration, to teach subjects in which they did not major.

Maybe this is done to return favors—political in nature. Every taxpayer should vote in the Saturday, April 13 school board election.

Electing all new members to the board could mean that the present hiring practices would change in fairness to all.

And even if fairness is not possible, then it would still be a bit of a change to have relatives of new board members hired for the openings which may become available.

RODGER RESIDENT

Alleges favoritism in hiring by board

To the Editor:

Many local unemployed residents agree that inequality reigns in our Granite City school system's hiring practices.

As many as three or four members of some families work for the schools, while other qualified applicants are cast aside with flimsy explanations as reason for their not being hired.

Everyone is aware of the fact that vacancies do occur occasionally.

Many are not posted until after they have been filled.

In the past, the taxpayers were always informed of the name and qualifications of those who accept positions. In some instances, even this is not being made public.

It is apparent that nepotism prevails here. It's not so much a matter of what you know, but to what you happen to be related.

An example of patronage is the hiring of teachers, in some instances, out of their area of concentration, to teach subjects in which they did not major.

Maybe this is done to return favors—political in nature. Every taxpayer should vote in the Saturday, April 13 school board election.

Electing all new members to the board could mean that the present hiring practices would change in fairness to all.

And even if fairness is not possible, then it would still be a bit of a change to have relatives of new board members hired for the openings which may become available.

LITTLE MISS SHAMROCK, Laurie Norris, 3, the youngest competitor ever to win the title at a Milwaukee, Wis., baton contest. At Milwaukee and Naperville, Ill., weekend events, Laurie earned five awards while her sister, Sandra, 7, collected 16 trophies. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Norris, 1620 Ferguson Ave.

Briarcliff group seeks gas stove

Mrs. Wanda Watson was authorized to get bids on a six-burner gas stove for the Briarcliff Pentecostal Church, 1120 West Pontoon Road, at a meeting Monday evening of the Ladies-in-Action group.

The new appliance will replace one which was damaged by a minor explosion occurring at the church earlier this week. No one was injured in the mishap.

Mrs. Christine Stentzer, president, conducted the business session.

Plans were made to serve refreshments at a May's auction at the farm home of Mrs. Maggie Metcalf on Old Sand Road, near Pogg Road. Mrs. Tiny Cook was appointed chairman of the project which will replace a previously announced bake sale.

Mrs. Maggie Glasgow offered the opening prayer and the invocation was given by Mrs. Opal Orrell.

Hostesses were Mrs. Dorothy Smith and Mrs. Dorothy Dickerson, who served refreshments to those named and to Mesdames Phyllis Allen, Helen Canada, Norma Fenoglio, Beulah Mills, Ann Hoson and Vida Murphy.

Party honors

Robbie Young

Robbie Young celebrated his fourth birthday at a party given last week by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young, in their home, 2545 Buenger Blvd.

Guests were served a late supper by the hosts, followed by the youngster opening his gifts. Those present were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Young and Mrs. Mary Povolny; great-grandmother, Mrs. Maria Povolny; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Walker, Joan, John, Judy and Jerry Walker, and the honoree's sister, Lisa Young.

'Ham-Bean' supper at St. John United

The Senior High Youth Fellowship of St. John's United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road, will sponsor a "Ham and Bean Supper" from 4 to 8 p.m. Saturday in the church Fellowship Hall, the Rev. Carl Eschenbrenner, associate pastor, announced today.

Tickets costing $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children are available from Youth Fellowship members or may be purchased at the door Saturday. A Walt Disney film will be shown for the children at 8:30 p.m. Saturday in the Youth Center, the minister said. The public is invited to attend.

Kardettes meet in Edwardsville

Mrs. Barbara Nemeth was hostess to the Kardettes Club Monday night at Ackerman's Restaurant in Edwardsville.

Those excelling at games and winning prizes were Mesdames Rose Perkins, Josephine Orsowich, Frances Skubish and Emma Jakich.

A late buffet was served to those named and to Mrs. Winona Kibort, Mrs. Elsie Hawks and a guest, Mrs. Dodie Edwards. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Skubish.

STATE EMPLOYE REPORT

By ROBERT E. ESTILL

SPRINGFIELD — "Equal opportunity?"

The phrase rings hollow for women and blacks in Illinois government.

Fact:

Men outnumber women in all 17 pay grades in excess of $700-a-month.

In the eight top-salary grades from $1,541 to $2,660-a-month, there are nearly twice as many white males as only high school educations ($5) as the combined total in these pay grades of all women with bachelor's degrees (26) and master's degrees (22).

Among all bachelor's degree holders in the $1,541 and up bracket, there are 160 white men, seven white women, 17 men from different minorities, one black woman and one Oriental woman.

Among all master's degree holders in the same pay bracket, there are 130 white men, six white women, a dozen men from minority groups and four women from minority groups.

There's no shortage of women and minorities with college degrees (even though they might be in the wrong areas); they just are clustered in lower pay grades, primarily between $700 and $1,340-a-month. The bachelor's degree holders, for example, number 4,380 white men, 2,621 white women, 478 men from various minorities and 415 women from minority groups.

I think it comes through very clearly that you will be most favored if you are white male," says Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, co-chairman with Rep. Giddy Dyer, R-Hinsdale, of the House Committee on Employment of Women and Minority Groups in State Government.

Prospects are only slightly brighter for black men and white women, she said.

"If you're a black woman, chances of getting a responsible position with good pay are right down at the bottom of the heap," she said.

The statistics were gleaned from a report prepared for the House committee by the State Personnel Department. The report — listing employees by education, pay grade, race and sex — covers $6,465 in pay grades.

But they are still talking in terms of goals, not large-scale accomplishments. State Personnel Director Nolan Jones can't predict when they might achieve "full utilization" of women and minorities.

Although the code-protected employees of the governor represent the largest block of state employees, that's not the only area where women and minorities are largely absent from the ranks of the higher paid.

Mrs. Chapman said a survey done for her committee by the Illinois Legislative Council shows only 22.3 per cent of all state employees earning $10,000-a-year or more are women.

Black women, for example, number 11.5 per cent of the $10,000 plus group.

Legislative employees earning $10,000-a-year or more, 16.3 per cent are women and none are black.

Among judicial employees (including judges) in that bracket, 27.8 per cent are women and none are black.

Mrs. Chapman noted the survey excluded judges, elected state officials and top appointed officials, which would have reduced even further the percentages of women and blacks.

"Tests have been made by white federal class males," pointed out John Kleinfelter, manager of research, recruitment and test development for the department.

"Blacks and other minorities come from environments where tests are not emphasized.... On just about every test, whites score higher than minorities but there is no significant difference in performance on the job."

They're also developing a program of selective referral, where the emphasis is on matching an agency's needs with an applicant's background and experience and not on test scores.

He said the process could be used to selectively refer women and blacks, particularly for state agencies where federal funding might be jeopardized because they don't meet federal equal opportunity guidelines.

One of the reasons why there are fewer college educated women and minorities in the upper pay bracket jobs is they have degrees in fields where the state has a surplus.

"Women traditionally have concentrated on teaching social services," Kleinfelter said. "It's only been in recent years they have concentrated a little bit more on accounting, business and even engineering."

Asst. State Personnel Director William Fitzgerald said another problem has been competition with private industry. He noted that industry has been under the federal requirements for affirmative action programs since 1965 but the state didn't fall under requirements until 1972.

He said industry will take a graduate with a master's in business administration, "a guy that's still wet behind the ears and doesn't even know how to make an expense account," and start him at $15,000. The bureau of the Budget states that same employee out at $12,000 a year.

Cooperation of Six Denominations Marks Religious Ministry at SUE

The biggest disagreement the six campus ministers at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville say they have had since working together at the Religious Center for the last five years was over what color the carpet would be.

The smallness of such an argument shows the spirit of cooperation and unity that exists among them.

The members of the United Campus Ministry at SUE represent six denominations of the Christian faith. The ministers are Rev. Marcus Pera, Lutheran, Missouri Synod; Rev. James Shortall, Roman Catholic; Rev. Russell Wigfield, United Christian Foundation; Rev. Robert Treat, United Methodist; Rev. Michael Pullin, Episcopal; and Rev. Joseph Santee, American Baptist.

Rev. Pera believes one reason they work well together is because they don't function as a religious hierarchy. Instead, they hold themselves accountable to each other on a more personal, informal basis. Their individual religious beliefs do not interfere with their activities at the Religious Center.

The variety of activities they are involved in at the Religious Center helps explain why they want to maintain an informal, relaxed atmosphere.

Activities range from the celebration of a traditional worship service on Sunday morning, to informal daily devotionals. Other activities include counseling sessions, group meetings, weddings and memorial services. Easter services also are celebrated each year.

Another way the campus ministers keep a sense of unity is through regular staff meetings, where they discuss coming events or anything someone feels he would like to talk about.

This atmosphere of openness was expressed simply by a student who said: "You don't have to have any particular religion to go to the Religious Center."

New law should cut down sales of stolen car parts

By MARY LOU MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — What you see is what you get.

In the case of purchasing a used or rebuilt car, that's true but you also get what you can't see. And that's where the trouble comes in.

You can't see just how good the parts are or just where they came from, for that matter.

But although there's no sure way of knowing, the chances of them being stolen parts should diminish with implementation of the new law requiring those persons dealing with salvaged bodies and parts to obtain a salvage certificate. The system works something like this.

John Doe wrecks his car. His insurance company pays the damages or total claim and takes possession of the vehicle. The insurance company must then apply for a $3 salvage certificate through the secretary of state's office before it may be sold. A certificate of title must be surrendered to the secretary's office upon application for the salvage certificate.

If Doe decides to dispose of his car as wreckage or salvage, he, too, must surrender his title and apply for a salvage certificate.

When the car is sold, it must be to those persons who qualify as registered dealers by the Motor Vehicle Division of the secretary's office. Included in this category are new or used dealers, rebuilders, wreckers or used parts dealers.

"These certificates may only be assigned to those persons registered by the state," explained W.B. Westbrook, manager of the secretary's title division. "Of course, one person may be registered for several certificates."

The rebuilder buys the car and rebuilds it. He wants to sell it. He must surrender his salvage certificate and, if requested, submit satisfactory evidence that any component part used in the rebuilding did not come from a stolen vehicle. He then receives a certificate of title.

(A component part, as defined by law, is "any part of a vehicle, other than a tire, having a manufacturer's identification number or an identification number issued by the secretary of state. Explicit records are kept on these parts.")

"Several states already have some sort of salvage law," Westbrook said. "We are still working toward what will be the best procedure in administering the law, which becomes effective Jan. 1, in regards to carrying out its intent."

The obvious intent of the law is to stop the trafficking of stolen vehicles whose parts are sold to many dealers.

The state police as well as the investigating unit of the secretary of state's office will enforce the law," he stated.

At present, the salvage certificates are being issued to insurance companies by the thousands, according to the official.

The rebuilding process is a complex one. It involves many steps and requires a great deal of expertise. The new law is designed to ensure that the process is carried out in a fair and equitable manner.

The new law is a significant step in the fight against the sale of stolen car parts. It will help to protect the interests of law-abiding citizens and ensure that the automotive industry is fair and competitive.

(A component part, as defined by law, is "any part of a vehicle, other than a tire, having a manufacturer's identification number or an identification number issued by the secretary of state. Explicit records are kept on these parts.")

"Several states already have some sort of salvage law," Westbrook said. "We are still working toward what will be the best procedure in administering the law, which becomes effective Jan. 1, in regards to carrying out its intent."

The obvious intent of the law is to stop the trafficking of stolen vehicles whose parts are sold to many dealers.

The state police as well as the investigating unit of the secretary of state's office will enforce the law," he stated.

At present, the salvage certificates are being issued to insurance companies by the thousands, according to the official.

The rebuilding process is a complex one. It involves many steps and requires a great deal of expertise. The new law is designed to ensure that the process is carried out in a fair and equitable manner.

The campus ministers have maintained an atmosphere of informality and cooperation at the Religious Center since they began working together five years ago.

THE RELIGIOUS CENTER at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is noted for its peacock dome, designed by R. Buckminster Fuller. The dome is 40 feet in diameter and rises 26 feet above the building. In addition to the dome area, the building contains three large meeting rooms, a library-conference room and seven offices.

FOR ELIGIBLE VICTIMS New law provides crime compensation

By RAND T. THOMAS

SPRINGFIELD — In 1972, 985 persons were murdered in Illinois.

A total of 2,623 women were raped and 24,287 persons were the victims of aggravated assault or battery.

Preliminary figures indicate crime statistics rose substantially in 1973.

Question — Does society have a moral or legal responsibility to care for the victims of violent crime?

Illinois lawmakers said "yes" last year when they approved the Crime Victims Compensation Act, effective Oct. 1, 1973.

Declared an investigator from the Illinois Attorney General's office: "The point is we spend a whole lot of money on criminals, to house and feed them, but not a whole lot has ever been done for the innocent victims of crime."

The financial compensation of crime victims is a relatively new concept. Ten states have such statutes on their books in some cases dating back to 1866. The British Commonwealth countries have had compensation laws for about 15 years.

Legislation pending in the federal House of Representatives would provide financial assistance to states with crime compensation laws.

Yet it took seven years, according to the legislative sponsor, Rep. Leland Rayson, D-Tinley Park, to obtain passage of the bill in Illinois — a state with one of the highest crime rates in the nation.

It's a new concept and it takes a little getting used to," said Rayson. "But for the first time I think we have finally recognized the state's obligation and responsibility to the victims."

He went on to note that the General Assembly last October set aside $100,000 to compensate innocent crime victims.

However, according to one somewhat skeptical state official, the Illinois law is a little more than a small step in the right direction primarily because of the mass of red tape and the still rules an applicant must wade through in order to obtain payment.

To be eligible, the law says an applicant must be a victim or dependent of a deceased victim of any one of the following crimes: murder, voluntary manslaughter, kidnapping, aggravated assault, rape, deviate sexual assault, indecent liberties with a child, battery, reckless conduct or arson.

The act provides for reimbursement up to $10,000 for medical or hospital expenses, loss of earnings up to a maximum of $500 a month and loss of future earnings up to $500 a month.

Under no circumstances can a victim be reimbursed for expenses covered by insurance or workmen's compensation. Also, the law does not allow for compensation for loss of personal property or pain and suffering.

In addition, compensation will not be provided if:

— The victim and the assailant are related or share the same household.

— The injury or death of the victim was attributed substantially to his own wrongful act.

— There was substantial provocation of the assailant by the victim.

— The victim does not cooperate fully with local law enforcement agencies in the apprehension of the assailant, including rape cases.

Victims have up to one year from the date of the crime to notify intent to file and another year to actually file.

Robert O'Shea, deputy clerk of the Court of Claims, says business has been slow under the new law due to a lack of initial publicity.

"We anticipated things would go slow at first," he said. "But as people find out about it, claims will probably skyrocket." He predicted that as many as 1,500 claims may be filed each year as time goes on.

Presently, O'Shea said the Attorney General's office and the court are preparing a pamphlet on the new law which will be made available to the public.

With no claims paid to date, O'Shea said it is difficult to determine what the average payment will be. But he said statistics from other states indicate the average claim could range between $200 and $2,000.

In contrast, the state paid an average of $4,248 last year to care for each of the 1,404 convicted criminals confined in Menard Correctional Center.

O'Shea said it is hoped that claims will sail through the court swiftly in such a way that private attorneys will not be necessary.

In California, according to a spokesman for Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, the average payment per victim under the state crime compensation law was $2,200 last year. A total of 1,081 persons filed claims but only 410 were accepted. In contrast, he said that in 1966, the first year the law was in effect, 180 claims were received and 21 were accepted.

In Nevada, which has what is dubbed a "Good Samaritan Act," 12 percent filed for compensation in 1973. Four of the 12 received the maximum benefit of $5,000 paid without regard to insurance coverage or workmen's compensation.

The catch is that only those persons injured in the act of Inheritance is available

An "orphan estate" of $6,000 is searching throughout Southern Illinois to become an Easter gift to descendants of Ferdinando W. Wentzel.

Gordon L. Cox, 302 W. Elm St., Tucson, Ariz., a probate genealogist who specializes in tracing missing relatives to settle estates, has begun a search for Wentzel's heirs.

"Ferdinando W. Wentzel was married," Cox said, "to a girl named Vivian Bowman in 1935 in Southern Illinois. Records indicate that a baby girl was born to the couple in 1937 and was named Deana Ray."

"Wentzel died in 1963 and it is believed Deana Ray, who would be entitled to inherit the sum, or her descendant, if she is deceased, still resides in Southern Illinois."

Cox said he also is seeking people who may have known members of the Wentzel family and can give information which will help them claim their inheritance.

Locomotive overhaul shop

A locomotive truck overhaul shop to serve the needs of the entire Norfolk and Western Railroad Company is being established at Decatur and will be operational within four months, Hobart L. Scott Jr., NW's general manager of motive power and equipment, announced this week.

Work on the $357,000 project got under way earlier this year and is part of the rail carrier's $96 million capital expenditure budget for 1974. He said the remodeled facility will have a capacity for overhauling 600 locomotive truck sets annually—double its former level. By consolidating NW's locomotive truck maintenance work, the 14-state carrier will be able to improve its maintenance and utilization of equipment, Scott related.

New machinery to be installed on the assembly line includes conveyors, roller bearing strip-off press, mounting press, boring mill, scrap wheel conveyor and axle lathe.

Railroad employees have been performing locomotive maintenance at Decatur since 1912, when the former Wabash Railroad opened the first maintenance shop. The Wabash became a part of Norfolk and Eastern in October 1964.

To fund overpass study

A resolution appropriating $12,500 of Granite City's motor fuel tax funds to study feasibility of an overpass or underpass downtown will be presented to the city council in its meeting Monday night.

The resolution, which has already been prepared, calls for studying the crossings of the Norfolk & Western, Penn Central and Gulf Mobile & Ohio railroad lines at 19th and 20th streets and Niedringhaus Avenue, to determine the best and most economical crossing for a grade separation, according to Mayor Paul Schuler who has been studying the possibility of an overpass or underpass.

Schuler said he hopes the city can qualify for available grants from the Federal Highway Act which are to be funded during the 1974-75 and 1975-76 fiscal years. He said funds are to be made available under the Federal Aid to Urban Systems program.

SOLVING ONE SEWER PROBLEM while other breaks continue to occur, Granite City Street Department employees prepare to install a new 15-inch sewer section along East 25th Street beside Anchorage Homes. The new line replaces an old 10-inch line which was among about 25 sewer breaks reported in the city in the past year. The city has spent more than $1.1 million for repairs. Nameoki pupils hope to save whales from becoming extinct

The dodo bird and many other creatures that once flourished no longer exist.

But whales will not join the list of extinct species, if world leaders listen to pleas currently being sent their way.

Among these correspondents are fifth grade youngsters at Nameoki School. Principal Donald Kopp reports that the children have initiated a letter writing campaign in the hope of saving whales from extinction. The students, in Mrs. Sheryl Evans' language arts group, had received material from Project Jonah, a non-profit international society devoted to the protection of whales, dolphins and porpoises.

"Learning that these magnificent, intelligent, ecologically critical animals are being turned into shoe polish, car wax, margarine, fertilizer and lubricating oil for automatic transmission was quite shocking" to the students, Mrs. Evans explains.

"Project Jonah wants children to write letters to Premier Kosygin of the U.S.S.R. and the Premier of Japan, the principal whaling nations, and plead for the whales.

"Project Jonah will send the letters and pictures the students painted to the Russians and Japanese leaders."

Excerpts from the local letters to Mr. Tanaka and Mr. Kosygin follow:

"Please don't kill whales. Your countries each kill 40 percent of them. How would you like to be blown up by a harpoon?"

"In the next five years, whales will be extinct if you continue."

"I know you need whales for some of your products, but there are other animals you can kill that are not as nearly extinct as whales."

"How would you feel if you were a whale? If you got caught and were slaughtered? Then no more of your kind existed? "Wouldn't you feel terrible?"

"Did you know that a whale is killed every 12 minutes? At that rate, in about five years we won't have any whales left."

"One of the true stories Mrs. Evans told us about whales really made me sad. Would you think that people would carve their names on a dead whale's body?"

"I would never carve my name in a whale. Not me. So, if you could, would you please try to save the whales?"

"I know that whales are used for different things. But how would you like to be hit with a harpoon? It wouldn't feel too good. Now, would it?"

"I don't think that killing a whale is right. It is very sad. If you think at it real hard, you'll understand what I mean. Whales are very pretty. I think that whales should be saved. Don't You?"

Visit to Spain Kiwanis topic

"The food was exceptional, the villages very clean and there were no pieces of litter anywhere among these nice, proud people," Kiwanian Michael Toudas told his fellow club members at their Monday evening meeting in Charlie's Restaurant.

Toudas was speaking of a recent visit to Costa Del Sol, Spain and the Mediterranean areas by he and his wife, Helen. The 10-day visit began on March 12. Toudas, a State Farm insurance agent, was one of three agents who went on the trip in a sales contest.

"The Caubah in North Africa is just what you would think it to be and one has to be rather careful there," he related. Melvin L. Gillie was a guest of the club. Gillie, an active Kiwanian, is moving upon retirement next Tuesday to Provo, Utah. He thanked the club for its friendship and support of many community projects, including sponsorship of the breakfast Kiwanis club. President Howard Elbertson reminded the Kiwanians of the bike marking program to be held Tuesday at Wilson Park by "Officer Friendly" and asked any of the members who could to help with the event.

Flowering crabapple sale this week

Advance orders are being taken this week by the Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce for the flowering crabapple trees.

Persons interested in placing orders in advance of the weekend sale are invited to call 876-6400, according to Mrs. Jo Meyer, Women's Division beautification chairman.

The trees, between three and four feet in height, will be sold to the public for $3 each at the Granite City Glass Co., 1125 Nameoki Road, from 9:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. Friday and from 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Sara Dempsey, president of the Chamber's Women's Division, said the sale is not a profit-making enterprise, but designed to help beautify the Quad-City area by providing the flowering trees to householders and business firms at nominal cost.

The Dortha flowering crabapple tree has been found to be highly adaptable to this region, Mrs. Meyer noted. The tree grows to a height of 25 feet and may be used in yards, patio areas or as a street tree.

The densely branched specie produces a crimson semi-double blossom with the fruit about a half-inch in diameter, the beautification chairman explained.

Written instructions on how to correctly plant the trees are given with each purchase, she added.

This week's tree sale is the fourth such project sponsored by the Women's Division. In previous sales, stocks have become rapidly depleted, Mrs. Meyer said. She suggested that persons desiring a large number of trees place their order in advance by calling 876-6400.

Among the first purchasers

FLOWERING CRABAPPLE TREES ready for planting will be offered the public Friday evening and all-day Saturday at the fourth annual tree sale of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. Placing a pre-sale order for The Nestle Co., 2101 Adams St., are W. I. Shuran, plant superintendent, left, and R. A. Higgins, plant manager. Mrs. Sara Dempsey, Women's Division president, second from left, and Mrs. Jo Meyer, beautification chairman, display the Dortha crabapple specie which will be sold for $3 each at the Granite City Glass Co., 3732 Nameoki Road.

were officials of The Nestle Co., represented by R. A. Higgins, plant manager, and W. I. Shuran, plant superintendent, who acquired several trees to place around the firm's local facility.

Lucille Aramowicz is engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Aramowicz, 3209 Harvard Place, are announcing the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Lucille Anne Aramowicz, to Al John DeLay, 218 Kerr St., Venice.

The prospective groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean DeLay, Route One, Box 425, Kissimmee, Fla. He is a graduate of Greenville High School and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Mr. DeLay is a work experience coordinator and teacher at Venice High School. He is a member of the Venice Lions Club, Granite City Jaycees and Elks Lodge 1063. Miss Aramowicz was graduated from St. Teresa Academy and SIUE. She is a member of Delta Pi Epsilon, an honorary business education organization.

At the present time, the bride-elect is employed as a business education teacher at Granite City High School South.

The engaged couple is completing plans for a June wedding at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

A disaster preparedness seminar for local Red Cross personnel and key volunteers is being conducted today at the Granite City Civil Defense Center, 1411 Nineteenth St.

Conducting the study program is Gladys Chambers, a disaster specialist from the American Red Cross regional office in St. Louis.

Subjects being covered include mass feeding, shelter and transportation-evacuation procedures, according to Mrs. Ruby Overbeck, Tri-City Red Cross Chapter executive.

Purpose of the seminar primarily is to coordinate assistance plans for the region in the event last spring's devastating flood conditions are repeated, Mrs. Overbeck explained.

Congregation to meet confirmands

The confirmation class of St. John United Church of Christ, 2801 Nameoki Road, will be presented to the congregation at the 10:30 a.m. worship service Sunday, according to the Rev. Paul Surbey, pastor.

Members of the class include Jackie Billelo, George Berts, Jack Dempsey, Donna Dettmer, Charles Duckworth, Karen Gaines, Bradley Gauen, Maureen Hogan, Charles Hunter, Bill Hurcoy, Lori Logan.

Molly Mertz, Robert Meyer, Scott Meyer, Lori Modlin, Jeffrey Roth, Beck Sage, Myron Schaefer, Becky Schorheide, Debi Schwendeman, Susan Thomas and Lori Walker.

The rite of confirmation will be held on Palm Sunday, April 7, at the 10:30 a.m. service, the pastor said.

Lack funds for road work

The Chouteau Township Board of Auditors, meeting during the weekend, were informed that the $18,000 in motor fuel taxes the township is to receive in the coming fiscal year will be sufficient for only about half as much road work as was done last year, due to the skyrocketing prices of asphalt and road materials.

The affect of the price rises was explained in a letter from the county highway department.

The board received its final payment of 1973 taxes from the Madison County Treasurer's office. Received were $7,424 for town fund and general assistance purposes and $8,901 for the road and bridge fund.

The payments will allow the township treasurer and highway commissioner to close their books which must be presented to the board at its April 3 meeting for auditing. The Wednesday, April 3, meeting date is set by law. The board voted to meet at 7 p.m. at 825 Thorngate Drive.

A motion to purchase new chairs for the township office at that address was approved.

The board voted to renew Supervisor Walker "Dick" Sparks' bonds for handling township funds.

Calvo seeks more gasoline for area

16 are hurt in bus-truck crash

Sixteen occupants were hurt, none seriously, at 1 a.m. Sunday when a Greyhound bus was hit from the rear by a truck on foggy Interstate 70 near Collinsville.

After treatment at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, they resumed their trip from Virginia toward Chicago and Detroit on another bus.

Increased gasoline allocations for this region were urged Friday by State Rep. Horace Calvo in a letter to Gov. Dan Walker.

Rep. Calvo wrote, "I wish to call your attention to a serious shortage of gasoline in the area comprising my district, which is the western portion of Madison County and part of St. Clair County, as well as the surrounding area of both counties."

"In February 1974, our State

Vehicle Allocation Office was successful in diverting sufficient gasoline to Northeastern Illinois to overcome a serious gasoline shortage impending in that portion.

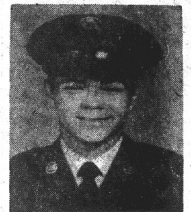

"We now have a very serious shortage impending in this area, whereas the northeastern portion of Illinois has plenty of gasoline and the stations are open additional hours and many of them on Sundays; we have short hours and have not been open Sundays.

"It would appear there is now a surplus of gasoline in Northeastern Illinois, whereas this area has now become the starved portion of the state, so to speak."

"On behalf of my district and the entire Madison and St. Clair Counties area, I implore your good offices to allocate sufficient fuel to meet the needs of this area, and due to the severity of the shortage plead with you for immediate action," Calvo wrote.

MATTHEW HOPKE, Airman 1st Class, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing basic training at Lackland AFB and spending a leave here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hopke, 2532 Stratford Lane. He entered service in January.

ASSAULT CHARGED
Art E. Heatherly, 30, of 3145 Maryville Road, was arrested and charged with aggravated assault Friday. Police said he allegedly threatened Ron Jones, 2413 Sunbury Ave., with a gun. Jones told police he had gone to the apartment building at 11:30 p.m. Friday to turn off the power when the alleged incident occurred.

TELEVISION STOLEN
A portable television set valued at $100 was taken from the home of Kathy Green, 710 State St. Madison, it was reported by the owner this week. Entry was gained by knocking a panel out of a side door.

Book review highlights luncheon

"How to Grow Up Female in America" was the title of a book reviewed by Mrs. James Stuart of the Bay View Reading Club at a special luncheon meeting last week, sponsored by the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club.

Twenty-two members and guests attended the event held at Miss Bruno's in Collinsville. In her presentation, Mrs. Stuart, a Granite City resident, drew a comparison with problems faced and solved by the pioneer American woman, the subject of the book, with questions confronting her modern-day counterpart.

Following the review, Miss Mary Frances Lynch, B.P.W. project chairman, presented the guest speaker with a gift of appreciation from the local business women's group.

A tour of the Bruno home and an inspection of its many antiques were enjoyed by the luncheon guests and B.P.W. members prior to adjourning. Among those present were guests, Mrs. James H. Lynch, Mrs. Florence Blake, Mrs. Fred Von Gruening and Mrs. Conrad Lueders.

Others attending were Mesdames L.J. Marulid, GC Business and Professional Women's Club president; and Helene Bischoff, Rosemary Baseden, Geraldine Brandley, Ann Graklanoff, Annette Griffin, Verna Lengyel, Toni Lynch, Gladys Newman, Lorene Sadrakula, Paula Smith, Pauline Weir, Sylvia Wright and Miss Lynch.

Baton students win 33 trophies

Eight girls and two boys, all students of Sharold Yount School of Baton, won a total of 33 trophies at a contest held in Eureka, Ill.

Winning top honors were Zandra Yount, 6, who earned the title of "Miss Shamrock" in modeling a party dress and a first place in prettiest costume; Ray Yount, 9, first in boys' solo twirl; Lisa Armour, 8, first in prettiest costume and in solo twirl; Kim Armour, 5, first in basic strut; and Collette Tanksley, 6, first in both hoop twirling and advanced basic strut.

Mrs. Yount's twirling team, known as The Acrotorns, also won first place in the Juvenile Small Twirling team division. Team members are Michelle Briggs, Lisa Armour, Georgette Tanksley, Ray Yount, Lorinda and Mark Grasso.

Winning trophies at a Kansas City, Mo., contest from this area was Sandra Norris, 7, who captured a total of nine trophies, including first places in advance basic strut and advanced flag twirling. Her 3-year-old sister, Laurie Norris, also participated in the contest. Other students who took part in the Eureka competition were

Special Education Parents seek funds

A fund-raising project to aid special education classes will get underway this week, with area businessmen and residents being contacted for contributions to further programs for the children. Kay Hahne, president of the Parents for Special Education Club, has announced.

Members and officers of the parents club support various projects, including donations to Specialized Services, Inc., and special education classes, together with swimming and skating sessions for special education students.

The group also aids Girl, Boy and Cub Scout troops for handicapped youth and donates to pre-school classrooms. Members host Halloween parties and a tea for retiring teachers and provide funds for field trips and materials for sewing classes. The club also prints a monthly newsletter.

Persons wishing to contribute to the drive may mail donations to: Parents for Special Education, P. O. Box 403, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Reading, communication skills, career preparation spotlighted

Springfield Bureau
Press-Record

Parents, students and educators throughout Illinois think that reading skills, communication skills and career preparation are the three most important areas in preparing children for the future.

Questionnaires computed by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction provide such a conclusion.

The survey was part of activities held this fall in conjunction with American Education Week events sponsored by the OSPI and the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Over 7,000 of the 20,000 participants in neighborhood discussion groups returned their questionnaires to the OSPI.

The three areas thought least important in preparing for the future were social studies, science, and artistic and creative studies, in that order.

Areas ranking in the middle include, in order of descending importance: consumer, economic and family management; psychology and mental health; computational skills; environmental and ecological education; and physical education and health.

Resounding agreement—nearly 97 per cent—came for the statement: "Teachers as well as students should be open to relearning and retraining in order to help children adapt to the future."

Strong support also was shown for: "Local school districts should encourage cooperative education with resource groups in the community such as business, labor and industry" (94 per cent); and, "School districts should establish ways, such as citizen advisory councils, for involving the community in the educational system" (91 per cent).

Disagreement was highest with these statements: "It is not important for a student to explore a variety of possible career choices before he or she graduates or leaves high school" (66 per cent); and, "The opportunity for schooling should be provided for all children as early as age three" (54 per cent).

Over 1,000 of the respondents also included additional comments with the questionnaires. They touched on topics ranging from the grading system to the "basics" to early childhood education to discipline to parent participation.

A sampling of these comments follows:

"Year-round schools."—a mother from Catlin (Vermilion County).

"I feel a foreign language should be introduced starting at the kindergarten level."—a Bloomington (DuPage) mother.

"The first seven grades should be taught more of the basics—reading, writing and math."—A father from Mt. Carmel (Wabash).

"Extreme caution should be observed before assuming that the public schools should be the 'cure-all' for the ills of society. A school system that is all things to all people will need much help from outside sources."

"—A Springfield father.

"Education should not necessarily be for learning the facts, but learning why and learning how to fit or adapt the situation to life."—a student from Rockford.

"Basic in education: reading, writing and math. Learning to live with others and learning the use and application of plain common sense. From there, one can go anywhere."—A father from Chicago.

"I believe early evaluation and testing of children under the age of three would prove valuable in planning their future. This would give ample time for school systems to develop programs to fit each children's needs."—A young mother from Jonesboro (Union).

Across America Youth Focus

"Since our children now have to start school at five years, let's not make it any earlier. My child's place is at home with me."—A Bridgeview (Cook) young mother.

"I would like to see a more individual way of evaluating a child's progress in school instead of grades. It seems to me we label a child in the first grade and many times it is hard for him to move out of that slot."—A mother from Mt. Vernon (Jefferson).

"Something must be done about discipline. Students will learn until they have respect for teachers and school."—A former Rockford educator (Winnebago).

"I would like to see a closer working between classroom learning to include parents so they, too, can help their child with learning."—a mother from Danvers (McLean).

"Greater communication between community and schools is needed. More communication between new concepts and techniques and the teachers."—A Taylorville (Christian) educator.

"Until the schools can prepare students to meet the needs of real life they aren't accomplishing their purpose. More courses are definitely needed to teach students how to interact more effectively with others."—A Springfield student (Sangamon).

Downtown Easter egg hunt

Children between the ages of 3 and 10 accompanied by an adult have been invited to participate in an Easter egg hunt beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 13 at Civic Park in downtown Granite City.

The event is being sponsored by Downtown Granite City, Inc. with Earl Harris, owner of Earl's Discount, chairman of the event.

Half of Civic Park will be used for children ages 3 to 6, and the other half for those 7 to 10.

Plastic eggs filled with jelly beans will be hidden in the park. Each child will receive candy before leaving.

Assisting with the event will be members of Explorer Post 104 sponsored by the Madison Lions Club and Madison Police Department.

Many of the downtown stores will be offering Easter specials to shoppers that day.

Technician education program

A science education program to help provide trained technical personnel for research and technology has been announced by the National Science Foundation (NSF). According to John Rodman, research and projects coordinator at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, NSF will support the development, testing and implementation of technician education programs at the college level.

The first awards, totaling approximately $1 million, will be made by the NSF in June 1974 to the project, called Science and Engineering Technician Education Program (SETEP).

Rodman said priority will be given to projects concerned with manpower needs to help solve contemporary national problems in all fields of science and engineering. Projects in medical, paramedical, and business-related technologies are not eligible for support. Inquiries may be directed to Rodman's office at SIUE or directly to SETEP.

'Mel' Gillie to retire Tuesday

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer
Melvin L. Gillie, manager of the Grant City store at Nameoki Village Shopping Center for the past 10 years, will retire Tuesday—ending a 38-year with the W. T. Grant Co. He and his family will move to Provo, Utah.

Gillie came to Grant City in September 1964 and since that time not only has been a highly efficient manager of the local W. T. Grant store but has been one of the area's most active business and civic leaders. His entire family has contributed greatly to the social, civic and service activities of the Quad-City area. Gillie has been active in Boy Scouts, the Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, United Way, Grant City High School Band Parents and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

In Boy Scouts he is the immediate past president of the Cahokia Mound Council and has served for several years on the executive board. Serving on numerous Scout committees, he currently is chairman of the Trust Fund committee.

He was awarded the Silver Beaver in 1973 by the Cahokia Mound Council in recognition of his service to youth not only in this area, but wherever his career with the Grant company has taken him.

His wife, Phyllis, was awarded the Silver Fawn, Boy Scouts highest award given a woman, last month in recognition of her outstanding RETIRING TUESDAY. Melvin L. Gillie, manager of Grant City at the Nameoki Village Shopping Center, will end a 38-year career with W. T. Grant Co. at noon Tuesday when he will retire from business activity. He has managed the Grant City store here for the past 10 years, and during that period has been one of the community's most active civic and business leaders. He and his family will move from Grant City. (Press-Record Photo) service to the Okaw Valley Council with headquarters in Belleville. His youngest son, Dennis, is an Eagle Scout, and his oldest son, Lt. Col. Gerald Gillie also was active in Boy Scouts. A daughter, Pamela, was a Girl Scout.

Gillie is a past president of the Grant City Evening Kiwanis Club and has served as Lt. Governor of Kiwanis District 14. He also was the principal organizer of the Grant City Breakfast Kiwanis.

Gillie also has given leadership to the Eastern Iowa and Illinois District as chairman of the Support for Churches and New Club Building committees.

Active in the Grant City High School Band Parents for five years, he is a past president of the group.

He brought national recognition to Grant City as Youth Committee chairman of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce, in which he also served as director and vice-president.

Gillie served as vice-president and member of the board of directors of the Associated Retailers and Civic Association and organized the Nameoki Village Retailers Association.

A guiding force in his life and that of his family is the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon). Gillie has been a Bishop of his church since February 1965.

Gillie started with the Grant company 38 years ago, in 1935, as a stock room trainee and worked in various parts of the country as an assistant manager.

He was given his first store manager's position in 1939 at Ogden, Utah. During the years, he has managed Grant Stores in Cleveland, Ohio; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Houston, Tex., and Indianapolis.

Since opening the local store ten years ago, he has kept the store in the top 50 in gross sales of the 1,200 Grant stores.

"I would attribute our sales in this area to good employees, trying to get what the customer wants and at the best value, along with a consistent advertising program," Gillie commented.

"It is with mixed emotions I leave the Quad-Cities as my wife, myself and my family are leaving many really fine people and many friends."

Business research director appointed

Richard F. Klein has been appointed director of business research for Amsted Industries, Chicago, it was announced Friday by O. J. Sopranos, treasurer. Amsted is the parent firm of the American Steel Foundries plant here.

Klein is rejoining Amsted after serving the company from 1963 to 1969 in both accounting and business research positions. Most recently, he was director of real estate for Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago.

He graduated from Loras College, Dubuque, Ia., in 1961 with a B.A. degree in commerce and accounting. In 1970, he earned an M.B.A. degree at DePaul University. Amsted is a broadly diversified manufacturer of industrial, construction and railroad products. It has annual sales of over $370,000,000, with 36 plants and more than 11,000 employees.

GIRL, 3, INJURED

Kimberly A. Rydigg, 3, of 1544 Joy Ave., a passenger in the car of Virginia Rydigg of the same address, was injured when their car and the auto of Floyd Revelle, 3003 Myrtle Ave., collided at Nameoki and Johnson Roads at 4:30 p.m. Friday. She was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for head injuries, x-rayed and released.

May end buses to games, opera

Elimination of special bus service to the Municipal Opera and to Cardinal baseball and football games is being considered by the Bi-State Transit System as an economy move, it was announced during the weekend.

Except for St. Louis City and County subsidies, the bus system is losing ground financially, serving 1,197,604 passengers in February, when the basic fare was 25 cents, compared to 1,037,000 in September, when the basic fare was 45 cents.

Revenue has dropped from 91 to 83 cents for each passenger mile. Illinois legislative funding will be sought after taking into Distinctive sound is easy for Heep

Uriah Heep is another in the long list of British bands which have been sweeping a wide path across America, gathering fame and fortune from hungry rock fans.

Although Heep has been working for some years, they are just now beginning to pick up enough momentum to carry them into the limelight. One reason for their recent success is the fact that they haven't changed members and as a result, became a tight, solid unit.

"The only reason we changed personnel so much before is because we were guys going through the usual basic stages of learning to play as well as growing up together and we just couldn't handle it," explained David Byron. "But now we would change only if someone quit, and I can't see that happening because we've known each other a long time now. Anyway, if we did break up and all five of us started a new group, they'd all sound like Heep, so we might as well stay together, right?"

This is the type of logical thinking that has made Heep's 7th album their best yet. "Sweet Freedom," their debut LP for Warner Bros. touches upon every facet of the group's talents and it's really a sample of the good things to come from this dynamic group.

"Our next album will be different, but we'll use the same group," said Dave. "We hope to expand in our present direction, plus set up a new show or stage act. Right now our act is the simple straightforward type of rock act, but after this tour we're going to lengthen and play some softer stuff like we do on the LPs, and just generally search all our capabilities for something new. This gets tough after seven LPs because you still have to come up with the 8th being your best."

Since we have to wait for the 8th, let's talk about the ingredients of the 7th, and what it takes to make such a record. "Well to start with," said David, "the majority of our songs are written by our keyboard man, Ken Hensley. He brings us kind of a sketchy song and the band arranges it. For instance, drummer Lee Kerlake sorts out a good tempo, then we sit down and talk about how it should be played. After experimenting with different arrangements, we rehearse it the way that it sounds and feels the best."

With the thousands of bands around today, it would seem virtually impossible to come up with a distinctive sound, but Dave says it's not really all that hard.

"For one thing it all depends on who you are and whether you're a leader or a follower. I think that if you want to do something bad enough you can do it, of course, it takes a lot of experimentation. But you see, everyone sings differently, and everyone plays the guitar differently. No two guitarists will play a solo exactly the same, so it's not really that difficult. Everybody starts off by copying somebody, but it gets to a point where you stop copying and your own ideas come into focus. And if these ideas are any good, you'll become successful. If not you won't, so you see, it's basically very simple."

"To me, the first hard thing is to become successful, and then the hardest of all things, which you don't notice until you are successful, is to maintain this level," he continued. "In order to stay on top you must keep one step ahead of everything, because the driving force that makes you go into the business in the first place, always makes you think you can do better each time out."

Retaining this success doesn't seem too difficult for Uriah Heep as they climb the ladder step by step, but where will all this fame and fortune lead?

"Well, I don't know but I don't want it to get out of hand, I want to be able to control it," he said. "We'll go on playing as long as people buy our records and come to see us perform."

How does he feel about being a 30-year-old rock star? "If you mean like Frank Sinatra, who was singing when he was 17 and is still singing, I wouldn't mind at all. I think Sinatra and Dean Martin are the epitome of stars cause they are so good at what they do, it just makes you want to give up."

"But obviously, when I'm 50 I won't be singing the same type of music or dressing or using the same type stage act. However, it is such a slow change that you don't really notice it. With music spreading out in all directions and becoming one musical force instead of a million little categories, the change will be noticed even less. Right now, we have to work at what we do best and that is just the Uriah Heep sound or type of music."

Tourism resorts to be encouraged in Illinois

The state Department of Business and Economic Development (BED) last week announced the beginning of a massive effort to encourage tourism resort development in Illinois.

Howard R. Fricke, director, said the effort is being initiated because "we realize the economic importance of the travel industry and believe that Illinois, with proper development, can be in an excellent position to bring more travel-related income into the state."

"Midwesterners, we believe, will start looking closer to home for vacation destinations. Our central location, coupled with the diversity of our attractions, could make Illinois an unusually attractive tourism destination."

Even when increased quantities of gasoline are available, Fricke continued, the pattern of close-to-home travel should be encouraged. Moreover, the state will be in a better position to convince travelers to vacation in Illinois if more resort and recreational facilities exist.

He is forming a departmental committee, chaired by BED Deputy Director Edward Bishop, to coordinate the department's activities related to resort development. Other committee members include the chief of the Industrial Development Division, the chief of the Community Development Division and Michael Linderman, who heads the Division of Tourism.

Teacher negotiations due

The Madison Board of Education, District 12, has authorized its administrators to begin negotiations with Madison teachers.

John Palchiff, superintendent, and Wade James, assistant superintendent, were authorized to open negotiations as soon as a meeting with the teachers union can be arranged. A letter was received from Albert Collins, head of negotiations for the teachers, that his group is prepared to begin talks.

Permission was given for use of the Blair and Harris schools this summer to again hold the headstart program.

The board authorized an increase for C. J. Schlosser & Co., certified public accountants, to conduct the annual audit of the district's books. The firm charged $875 last year and increased to $1,100 this year was approved.

A controversial bill concerning engineering fees for dedication of alley behind Dunbar School again was tabled by the board. The city of Venice authorized the study and the board has been attempting to determine if the city is responsible for paying a portion of the engineering fees.

Board members were informed by an attorney that a suit is to be filed in Madison County Circuit Court against the district on behalf of a boy who was injured in a classroom accident in November.

The district's one and five-year vocational plans were approved. The plans call for use of the Collinsville Area Vocational School for health and agricultural training programs and the use of existing Madison school facilities for the remainder of the classes. No new facilities are planned.

Board members voted to seek bids on a commercial dishwasher for Dunbar School and on a new pickup truck for use by the maintenance department.

Collinsville Equipment Co. was awarded a $424 contract to supply four lawn mowers to the district, on the basis of low bid to specifications.

Three bids on light bulbs were opened and the administration was authorized to examine the bids and award contracts to the lowest bidders on each type of bulb.

Bidding was authorized for three French fryers for the elementary schools. Bids opened for repairs to the roofs at Harris School and on the Blair School gymnasium were tabled for further consideration. Two bids were received for the roofing work.

The board agreed to pay the repair bills on two cafeteria cash registers which were received in a damaged condition.

Election related resolutions were approved, including one appointing election judges, another authorizing Tri-City Printing Co. to print the ballots, one to pay judges and custodians $20 each for election services, and one allowing affidavits to vote in lieu of poll lists and poll books.

Polls for the school board election will be open from noon to 7 p.m. Saturday, April 13. Four precincts have been selected.

The resignation of Kenneth Williams, principal of Louis Baer School, effective the end of this school year, was "accepted with deep regrets" by the board. Williams has been employed by the district 28 years as a teacher, administrator and coach.

The resignation of Sam Platt, a sixth-grade teacher at Louis Baer School, also effective the end of the school year, was accepted with regrets by the board. He taught in Madison 23 years.

A leave of absence was granted to Mrs. Janis K. Wortham, a first grade teacher at Blair School.

The board tabled renewal of the Student Accident and Football Accident Insurance plan in order to study how well accepted the program was during the past year.

Trip approvals included allowing Dunbar chorus members to take a field trip to Six Flags Over Mid-America May 13, allowing the Madison High School band to tour band equipment plants in Chicago and Indiana April 19 and 20, allowing fifth grade Dunbar School students and teachers to take a field trip to Salem and Springfield, Ill., and giving permission to 18 district students to attend a youth conference at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville today.

Board members were authorized expenses to attend the National Association of School Boards' convention April 6 to 9 in Houston, Tex.

Approval was given to hold a donkey basketball game at Dunbar School April 18.

Mrs. Moore region health coordinator

Dr. Joyce C. Lashof, Illinois director of Public Health, has announced the appointment of Genell Hoskins Moore as regional health coordinator in the state department's Collinsville office, 9500 Collinsville Road.

Mrs. Moore's primary function will be to encourage development of local health services in areas where these services are not now available. She also will assume the responsibility for coordinating all health and social service programs which now exist in the Region 4 Collinsville area.

As the regional health services coordinator, consultant and health planner, Mrs. Moore will serve as a resource for local-level public health agencies in development of effective communication between the state health department and local agencies in seven counties — Bond, Clinton, Madison, Monroe, Randolph, St. Clair and Washington.

State education board nominees

Fifty nominees to the first Illinois Board of Education were proposed at a luncheon held at the governor's mansion by a committee he had created.

Gov. Dan Walker will choose 17 of the 50, subject to senate confirmation; the names of the other 33 will not be announced.

The board, provided for in the 1970 Illinois Constitution, is to appoint a chief state education officer by January.

Loan fund for SIUE women

The Women's Club of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has established a loan fund at SIUE "to assist worthy women students in securing an education."

Presented through the SIUE Foundation, the initial gift was $600.

Loans will be made to full-time women students of SIUE who have at least a 3.0 ("C") average.

On April 21, members of the club will present the internationally known pianist Ruth Slenczynska in a benefit performance for the loan fund. Miss Slenczynska will perform gratuitously in order to help increase the amount of the loan fund.

A speed-reading course will be offered during the spring quarter at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville at no additional cost to registered students.

Three sections are scheduled for spring quarter. Section one will meet from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Monday; section two, from 4:30 to 6:20 p.m. on Thursday; and section three, from 8:30 to 10:20 a.m. on Thursday.

The non-credit course uses both classroom and individual methods to help persons read with greater speed and accuracy in required or leisure time reading.

Persons not enrolled at SIUE may register at the first class meeting.

For further information interested persons may call the General Studies Division office, telephone, 682-3922.

Ad paid by Madison County Association for Mental Health.

The Quad-City Mental Health Clinic requested the board and the clinic enter into a written agreement on services now being conducted jointly to insure a grant allocation for next year and hopefully bring additional staff to the program.

Approval also was granted to Larry R. Dew for his request of tuition and transportation for the placement of four handicapped children outside of District 9. Under this program the school districts participating under H.B. 2671 would pay the first $600 with a maximum payment of $2,000, and the state will reimburse the district $1,400 for each case.

The board agreed to sell various containers to be used in a hot food program for the elderly in Alton under the direction of Mrs. Vernice Workman. The recommendation came from O. L. Overhuler, director of the school lunch program who said the cafeteria no longer has any use for the items.

Board members agreed to accept a gift of a trophy case from the Steelers Booster Club to be placed at North High School at the club's own expense.

Permission to use school facilities was given to the postmaster for a room at South High School on March 30 for a supervisor's examination, and for the Namski Girl Scouts to use Coolidge Junior High School cafeteria on May 16 or 20 for a mother and daughter banquet.

H. E. Hillmer, employee relations administrator, reported he had received notice from the Granite City Federation of Teachers local 743, Service Employees International Union Local 98, and Warehousemen and Helpers Local Union 525, that they desire to meet with the board of education to request modifications of working agreements.

This would only involve the articles concerning rates of pay or salaries for these employees. Hillmer added the board agreed to file the letters and establish future meeting dates. It also was reported that the 8th annual school law conference will be held April 8 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The theme of the conference will be "Arbitration in the School."

The secret to their production is a parade of talented performers: Richard Chamberlain, Christopher Lee, Oliver Reed, Michael York, Charlton Heston, Gerdine Chaplin, Frank Finlay, Simon Ward, Raquel Welch and Fay Dunaway.

Y offers lifesaving course

The Tri-City YMCA will offer a Lifesaving Course beginning April 3. Upon successful completion of the course individuals will be certified in both Red Cross and YMCA lifesaving.

The instructor held nationally recognized certification as a specialist instructor in swimming, specialist instructor in lifesaving, and as a water safety instructor.

Classes will be held on Wednesday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. Class will meet for 10 weeks. Minimum age for Senior Lifesaver is 15, while minimum age for Junior Lifesaver is 12. Those entering the course must be able to swim 22 lengths of the Y pool. The fee for the course which covers pool time and text books is $20 for Y members and $25 for non-members.

Simultaneously the Y will be offering a WSI (Water Safety Instructor) course beginning April 4.

Miss Kerch wins national honor

Miss Barbara Kerch, physical education consultant for Granite City School District 9, will receive the 1973-74 honor award from the Council of City and County Directors of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation at its annual meeting on Friday in Anaheim, Calif., according to a letter read at the Board of Education meeting.

Recognition is being accorded this year by the CCD to outstanding colleagues who have demonstrated leadership abilities in the profession and the Council, the national organization announced.

The board also noted another honor given to Tully Heubner, director of buildings and grounds, who was appointed to serve a three-year term as a member of the Research Committee in Maintenance and Operations for the American School Business Organization, a national organization relating to the business of school districts.

The board approved bills in the educational fund of $70,945, new construction No. 2 at North High School in the amount of $5,921, a total of $56,431 in the building fund, $714 in the joint agreement fund and $40,425 out of the transportation fund.

Bond and interest fund payments totaled $13,019 to Exchange National Bank and the Chicago and The Northern Trust Co.

Cafeteria disbursements for the month of February totaled $51,257.

Bids approved by the board included the purchase of custodial chemicals from Budnick Supply Co., Huntington Laboratories, Inc., U. S. Paint, Lacquer and Chemical Co., Moore Research, Inc., National Laboratories, Hilla Brand, Western Chemical Co., and Acme Chemical Co., for a total of $11,734.

Instructional supplies were approved for purchase from Beckley Cardy Co., Interstate School Specialty, J. S. Latta and Sons, Ideal Inc., Obermeier Stationery, Standard Stationery, Model Publishing, Rowe Pencil Co., Bradburn School Supplies, Constructive Playthings and Dick Blick for a total of $14,640.

Vendors for instructional paper and supplies included Pyramid Paper, Fox Supply, Zaner Bloser and Palmer for a total of $7,038. Almost all paper supplies have increased from 21 to 25 percent over 1973 costs, the board noted.

Heubner was given authority to purchase removing lines for the school aerator and a drag mat at a cost of $317 to begin work on the athletic fields at North High School, and to purchase all-kill weed killer for the ball diamonds at a cost of $277.

"family affair" rating of Good.

"One for all and all for one." More are familiar with the classic "The Three Musketeers."

The title about a bunch of sword-fighting men, wearing fancy attire and wigs and sprinkled with sweet smelling water while saving women in distress, has always struck the fantasy of the young and old.

But no one has seen the latest presentation of "The Three Musketeers" until they see 20th Century Fox's production. Talk about a memorable and refreshing recreation of old-fashioned entertainment!

The secret to their production is a parade of talented performers: Richard Chamberlain, Christopher Lee, Oliver Reed, Michael York, Charlton Heston, Gerdine Chaplin, Frank Finlay, Simon Ward, Raquel Welch and Fay Dunaway.

This PG-rated version has a lot of swash-buckling drama and comical antics. I enjoyed this movie to the end, and rated it Good.

Y offers lifesaving course

The Tri-City YMCA will offer a Lifesaving Course beginning April 3. Upon successful completion of the course individuals will be certified in both Red Cross and YMCA lifesaving.

The instructor held nationally recognized certification as a specialist instructor in swimming, specialist instructor in lifesaving, and as a water safety instructor.

Classes will be held on Wednesday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. Class will meet for 10 weeks. Minimum age for Senior Lifesaver is 15, while minimum age for Junior Lifesaver is 12. Those entering the course must be able to swim 22 lengths of the Y pool. The fee for the course which covers pool time and text books is $20 for Y members and $25 for non-members.

Simultaneously the Y will be offering a WSI (Water Safety Instructor) course beginning April 4.

Additional information may be obtained at the Y, 2001 Edison Ave., or by calling 876-7200.

Coterie hears history story

Mrs. R. E. Chapman presented a patriotic program on the subject, "The Curious Case of the Unassigned Pledge," at a meeting of the Ladies' Coterie at the First United Presbyterian Church.

She spoke on the research that had been done in relation to the author of the pledge of the allegiance. She noted the Rev. Frank Bellamy wrote the pledge which was recited by school children on Oct. 12, 1892, but it was on June 14, 1954, that the words "under God" were added to the pledge by the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

After the program, Mrs. T. C. Auderheide, chairman of the sewing contest, introduced Mrs. Lyndell Hagaman, Mrs. B. S. Miller and Mrs. Bonard Peoples who modeled three-piece suits and pant suits that they had made. Mrs. Auderheide also modeled a costume she created.

Mrs. Marvin Eddington opened the session with the pledge of allegiance and the club collect was led by Mrs. Hagaman.

Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. Dawson Wade and Mrs. Reiske accompanied the members in a group singing session.

The April 4 meeting will be held at the church with Mrs. Wilford Cooley as hostess and Mrs. George Filcoff as program chairman.

Donna Broyles

A dinner party was held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Broyles, 2109 11th Ave., to honor 7-year-old Donna Sue Broyles who received her first communion at St. Margaret Mary Church.

Gifts were given to the young honoree and guests played games. Donna Sue entertained them with dance steps.

Among those attending were Donna Sue's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Broyles Sr. of Madison, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Brookshire of Jennings, Mo., and two great-grandmothers, Mrs. Grace Betty of St. Louis and Mrs. Lottie Kille of Venice.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Jachino, John Kittel, Miss Carol Buster, Earnest Kamischke, Gertrude Sprinkle, Jim Brookshire, Frank Broyles, and Mrs. Frank Kittel and sons Mike and Frank Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Andre Gileto and son Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Broyles and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Broyles Jr. and daughter, Mary Beth, and the honoree's brother, Todd Broyles.

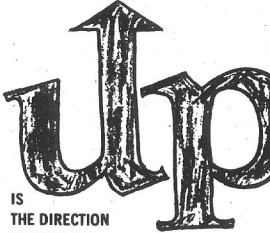

EXORCISM TOPIC OF ST. LOUIS SPEAKER

William Delahunt, vice-president of The Theosophical Society of St. Louis, will be guest speaker at Unity Chapel, Stratford and Village lanes, on Sunday.

His topic for the 10 a.m. service will be "Exorcism."

Army wives style show Monday night

Clothing styles for the coming season will be spotlighted in a "Spring-Summer Fashion Festival" to be presented at 7:30 p.m. Monday by the Non-Commissioned Officers Wives Club at the Granite City Army Installation.

The public is invited to attend the fashion preview at the local Army base's NCO Club.

Donations of $1 per person may be contributed at the door with proceeds to be used to help support the club's charitable endeavors. Mrs. Randy (Sandi) Monhollen and Mrs. Larry (Sharlene) Holben, co-chairmen, said.

Casual wear, sports clothes and formal gowns will highlight the presentation provided by Marilynn's House of Fashion, 1231 Nineteenth St., where tickets also may be obtained in advance of the show.

Eleven members of the NCO Club will serve as models. Five toddlers and four other youngsters will model children's garments, Mrs. Monhollen said.

Refreshments will be available during the event, the co-chairmen advised.

Granite 650 initiates four

An Easter message was read by Worthy Patron Harry McClintock and LaVerne Larson sang a selection, entitled "Holy City," at a meeting of Granite Chapter 650, Order of Eastern Star, held during the weekend at the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Betty McClintock, worthy matron, and her corps of officers conducted initiation ceremonies for Mrs. Louise Orr, Mrs. Lorraine Ernest, Finis Ernest and George Malotki. During the meeting, Mrs. McClintock introduced grand lecturers Hazel Wood, Arline Fox and Mary Bihrey, all of Granite City, and Mildred Gause of Wood River Chapter and 16 grand chapter committee members.

Worthy matrons and worthy patrons introduced were Thelma and Howard Frewett of New Hope Chapter 432; Martha Hammet of Wood River and Rosemary Maples of Festus Chapter 417, Crystal City, Mo.

The worthy matron reviewed a visit to Queen City Chapter of Fairview Heights, when she and her husband served as guest officers, and announced the April 12 meeting will be "Advance Night."

Refreshments were served in the dining room which was decorated in an Easter motif. Large baskets were used as centerpieces and two Easter

Madison Ladies Club plans autumn dance

The Madison Ladies City Organization met at the Sportsman's Club to discuss plans for the annual Black Cat dance set for Oct. 4.

Mrs. Maxine Costoff, vice-president, presided at the meeting and gave the pledge of allegiance. Chaplain Violet Bader offered the evening prayer.

Members were reminded to send cards to Mrs. Sally Esworth, who is a patient at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, and a thank you letter from the National Cystic Fibrosis Foundation was read.

Hostesses for the evening, Julia Goclan and Fritz Trots, served refreshments to 21 members present.

Choir to perform cantata

The Sanctuary Choir of Central Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), 2020 Johnson Road, will present the music of Easter in the Cantata "Celebrate Life," Sunday morning, March 31, it has been announced by Dr. L. Jim Anthlis, minister.

The Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Joseph Hanson, will perform the musical drama during the Sunday worship celebration at 10:45 a.m. in the church's sanctuary.

Mrs. Judy Owens, the church organist, will be featured with Martin Aerne on the drums, Nancy Dunn and Lisa Groothuis on flutes, Terri Kmucha on guitar and Linda Beane on violin. Solos in the Cantata will be sung by Lois Bihrey and Marge Hanson.

The drama in the service is under the direction of Marie Gordon and will feature Ed Lorton, Gregg Robertson, Matt Hanson and Bruce Gordon.

Immediately following the service, the choir will be recognized at a reception in the church's newly decorated Terrace Room.

"The greater community is invited to attend and join in the celebration of life," Dr. Anthlis said.

St. John resets potluck, drive

St. John United Church of Christ's family-style potluck supper and paper drive project, postponed last weekend due to inclement weather, have been reset for this week, the Rev. Paul Surbey, pastor, announced today.

The supper is scheduled at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in the church Fellowship Hall. Meat, beverage and bread and butter will be provided, with each family asked to bring a covered dish item, the minister said.

Mrs. McDowell shower honoree

Mrs. Virginia McDowell was guest of honor at a bridal shower given this week by Mrs. Rosalia Jenkins and Mrs. Maxine Abrams in the latter's home, 2184 Northland Drive. Decorations in a pre-wedding color scheme were used throughout the house and the hostesses directed games in keeping with the event.

Guests attending were Edna Forcade, Lillian Delpo, Virginia Gadwell, Dorothy Lybarger, Katie Hommert, Naomi Randall, Mickey Jones, Juanita Kobitz, Young Chung, Elaine Kaiser and Esther Vasilloff.

Mrs. McDowell will be married on April 12 to Bob Warford at the First United Presbyterian Church.

Slides of historic sites in Jerusalem and other areas of the Holy Land will be shown by the Rev. Carl Eschenbrenner, St. John's associate pastor, following the meal. He recently returned from a trip to Israel.

The Rev. Surbey said the Junior High Youth Fellowship's paper drive will take place Saturday. A trailer now is located on the church parking area, 2901 Namecki Road, where papers may be deposited.

Individuals having quantities of paper to be picked up are being asked to call the church office, at 877-6060, on Friday afternoon or until noon Saturday, he advised.

Kellie Ratliff feted at party

A character theme from Sesame Street entitled "Cookie Monster" was used in the decorations and favors for a party honoring Kellie Michelle Ratliff on her fourth birthday.

Hosting the party were the guest of honor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ratliff in their home, 2144 Waterman Ave.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burns of Granite City, Mrs. Neva Ratliff of Painsville, Ky., grandparents of the honoree, and Mrs. Brenda Jakich, Nicky and Lance Jakich, and Eddie Ratliff.

Anderson infant son is baptized

Stuart Bobby Anderson, infant son of Army Sergeant and Mrs. Stuart (Carolyn) Anderson, was baptized this week at Concordia Lutheran Church, with the Rev. Arvin Twietmeyer officiating.

Sponsors for the baby were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stangato. Mrs. Anderson, formerly of Granite City, will depart April 9 to rejoin her husband who is stationed with the U.S. Army in Germany. Their son was born on Feb. 20 at Belleville Memorial Hospital.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Shano, 2211 Monroe St., with whom the new mother and child have been staying, and Mrs. Willie Anderson of Washington, D. C.

Revival services at Third Baptist

The Rev. Ron Lewis of Springfield, Ill., will be the guest preacher and the Rev. David Richardson will direct the singing at a revival at Third Baptist Church, 28th Street and Grand Avenue.

They will conduct the services at 7:30 p.m. each day starting April 1 and continuing through April 7 at the church, the host pastor, the Rev. Carl Watkins, announced.

The church nursery will be available for families with small children, Rev. Watkins said.

Propose state energy policy council

Lt. Gov. Neil F. Hartigan on Monday issued a ten-page proposal for the creation of an Illinois Energy Policy Council which he feels can provide people with "common sense answers to their energy-related problems."

In a letter to statewide elected officials and the leadership and members of the Illinois General Assembly, Hartigan said the council could make recommendations in four main areas:

1) energy supply and new technology; 2) energy conservation; 3) environmental and social implications; and 4) legal and regulatory policy.

It would have access to energy-related information from state governmental agencies and departments, energy producers and distributors, and large consumers from private sectors.

The Energy Policy Council, which would hold public hearings, would be composed of elected officials and private members representing agriculture, commerce, industry, labor, government and the academic community.

"Illinois cannot afford to react to one phase of the crisis after another," he said. "We must assume a leadership position, particularly in the energy area because of its impact on every person in our state."

Hartigan said that as he became more involved in the economic development of the state shortly after assuming office, he discovered that a key limitation on Illinois' future agriculture and industrial development is its supply of energy.

"Farmers throughout Illinois are worried whether they will have enough fertilizer—depending upon the supply of petrochemicals—for their crops, enough fuel for grain drying purposes or enough railroad cars to get their crops to market."

"Motor carriers wonder if they should expect their truck fleets in light of the rising cost and shortage of fuel. Tourists and vacationers wonder if they should take a trip to Southern or Central Illinois for fear of being stranded without gasoline.

"These are problems that concern the people of Illinois because they affect their jobs, their businesses and the future of our towns, villages and cities," said Hartigan.

"Workers who have to drive each day or housewives who need a car for shopping but have trouble obtaining gasoline only see confusion, indecision and delays from a national

"An 'open primary' is needed in Illinois, if a majority of the people are to have a voice in selecting public officials," state representative nominee Everett Steele said this week.

Citing the March 19 primary results in Madison County, in which only 25 per cent of eligible voters cast a vote, Steele said, "As a practical matter, a number of important public officials have, in effect, been chosen by a small fraction of the voters, for the next two to four years."

"An 'open primary' law, the Glen Carbon Republican said, "like our open meetings law, would bring the 'sunshine and fresh air' of public opinion into the 'smoke-filled rooms' of our political system."

"It would promote and encourage greater voter participation."

"The open primary has worked successfully in our neighboring states of Wisconsin policy that isn't applicable to our state," said Hartigan.

In pointing out the difference between state and national energy needs, Hartigan noted that residential and commercial facilities in Illinois consume 30 per cent of the energy supplied, while this is only 20 per cent nationally in the same categories.

He said coal, which contributes one-third of the energy consumed in Illinois, contributes less than 10 per cent to the nation as a whole.

"Illinois needs a coordinative energy effort such as an Energy Policy Council," said Hartigan.

"California, Ohio, Texas and Kentucky have structures for comprehensive energy policy-making and Illinois should act now. This can be done by executive order or legislative action."

Hartigan first called for an Energy Policy Council last August in a report issued by his office which examined the possible use of "low BTU coal gasification as a partial solution to energy problems in Illinois."

Since then he has expanded his proposal to include other forms of energy that have an effect on the economy of Illinois.

"You can't beat the machine, so you vote in the primary" which is most often the case.

"In recent campaigning," Steele continued, "I have found people to be distrustful of government."

"They feel that their attitudes and opinions don't really matter, or don't count, when the real decisions are made."

"The closed primary system certainly contributes to and helps perpetuate the mistrust."

"I believe an open primary is urgently needed today, to insure the secrecy of the ballot, to encourage greater voter participation, to reduce the influence of 'machine politics' and to help restore confidence in government."

"I strongly favor an open primary," Steele concluded. "I will support and work for election reform in the legislature, if given the opportunity to serve the people of this area in November."

"I vote for the man, not the party. Therefore, I did not vote."

"One lady told me that she voted in the morning, and that by the afternoon, she received a phone call condemning her for the ballot she had voted."

Knights of Columbus Founders day Friday

The Knights of Columbus was chartered March 29, 1952, by the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut, and on Friday the nearly 1,200,000 members will celebrate the granting of the original charter. There are 365 local KC members.

A Mass celebrating the founding will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday at St. Elizabeth's Church, 2300 Pontoon Road, Knights of Columbus Chapter, Father Lawrence Mattingly will conduct the Mass.

Former Mayor Partney honored by Ill. Senate

An Illinois Senate resolution introduced by State Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene cites long public service by the late Donald W. Partney, former mayor of Granite City.

The resolution relates that "Mr. Partney, who was a native of Missouri, lived in Granite City for 48 years, served on its City Council for 18 years and was elected mayor in 1965, a position in which he served his city and its people until April 1973."

"He was a metalworker and worked as an estimator for the City for 48 years, served on its City Council for 18 years and was elected mayor in 1965, a position in which he served his city and its people until April 1973."

Wheat crop 'excellent'

By WARREN W. BUNDY
County Farm Adviser

Winter wheat in Madison County is green and growing with most fields in excellent condition.

Wheat in many fields appeared brown three weeks ago from a fungus disease called Septoria. That disease is present in every year but is more severe than usual this year.

Cool, wet weather favors the disease. Progress of the disease nearly stops during hot, dry weather. We do not recommend spraying with a fungicide to control Septoria.

Wheat field infested with wild garlic can be treated with one pint of 2,4-D ester per acre to control the garlic enough to avoid garlicky wheat at harvest and to avoid price discounts for garlicky wheat.

Any time during the next two weeks is an ideal time to spray for garlic control, but wheat can be treated any time up to boot stage. Some spraying already has been done. The treatment will kill any legumes seeded in the wheat.

Winter wheat acreage in the United States is 18 per cent more than a year ago, and Illinois production is estimated at 30 per cent more than a year ago.

Madison county farmers increased their winter wheat acreage substantially this year. A two billion bushel crop of winter wheat and spring wheat is estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for the 1974 harvest. That would exceed the 1973 record harvest by nearly 300 million bushels.

If these estimates materialize, as they seem likely to do, the 1974 harvest may bring much pressure on wheat storage and transportation facilities. Such pressure could affect the harvest time price of wheat.

A meeting for wheat producers and grain dealers in Madison county and other counties in this area is planned to provide information to help with decisions about the orderly marketing of the 1974 wheat crop.

Program topics will include "Marketing Choices for 1974 Wheat" by L. F. Stice, Extension Economist in Grain Marketing, U. of I.; "Export Projects" by S. C. Schmidt, Agricultural Economist, U. of I.; and "Early Harvesting, Drying and Storage" by Harvey Herring, Agricultural Engineer, U. of I.

Joe Povlish, Washington County Service Company, will discuss market prices, discounts, storage and transportation as viewed by a country grain dealer. An exporter and a flour miller also will speak on those topics.

The meeting will be Wednesday, April 3, from 9:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Wil-Char Restaurant in Breese. Wheat producers, grain dealers, and others interested are invited to this open meeting.

The Japanese have been frequent buyers of breeding stock at the National Barrow Show held each year in Austin, Mich. This year more than a hundred Japanese buyers were present, and their influence in breeding prices to record levels was strong.

The president of the newly organized Japanese Pork Producers Council, Tatsuo Soga, set the pace when he paid a record price of $25,000 for a champion Hampshire boar. He also bought the champion Duroc boar for $38,000, the champion Yorkshire boar for $30,000, and a champion gilt for $22,000 for the reserve Yorkshire boar.

Altogether, Soga purchased 11 boars and 5 gilts for just over $203,000.

His Countrymen at the show were also active buyers of some of the other animals.

Influencing the Japanese interest in obtaining U. S. breeding stock is the growing consumer demand for pork and the current inability of Japan to produce required supplies.

Open primary urged

"An 'open primary' is needed in Illinois, if a majority of the people are to have a voice in selecting public officials," state representative nominee Everett Steele said this week.

"It would promote and encourage greater voter participation."

"The open primary has worked successfully in our neighboring states of Wisconsin and Michigan. Under this plan, voters are able to vote for either party, without first declaring their party affiliation."

"In the secrecy of the voting booth, they have the opportunity to vote for the party of their choice. In some states," Steele noted, "a voter can select candidates by office, rather than by party."

"People are dissatisfied with our present primary system. Typical of comments which I have received since the election are these:

"I vote for the man, not the party. Therefore, I did not vote."

"One lady told me that she voted in the morning, and that by the afternoon, she received a phone call condemning her for the ballot she had voted."

"Others have told me, 'How I vote should be secret. I don't like primaries' or 'In my line of work, I can't afford to be affiliated with either party' or

"You can't beat the machine, so you vote in the primary" which is most often the case.

"In recent campaigning," Steele continued, "I have found people to be distrustful of government."

"They feel that their attitudes and opinions don't really matter, or don't count, when the real decisions are made."

"The closed primary system certainly contributes to and helps perpetuate the mistrust."

"I believe an open primary is urgently needed today, to insure the secrecy of the ballot, to encourage greater voter participation, to reduce the influence of 'machine politics' and to help restore confidence in government."

"I strongly favor an open primary," Steele concluded. "I will support and work for election reform in the legislature, if given the opportunity to serve the people of this area in November."

Honorable mention to South student in builders contest

David Gilmore, a senior vocational drafting student at Granite City High School, won honorable mention during the weekend in the eighth annual Model Building Contest sponsored by the Illinois Builders Association.

Although 150 applications were submitted, only 40 models were completed and submitted to the competition. The contest was open to 22 counties in Illinois. Gilmore was the first student from Granite City to ever enter the competition.

Along with a certificate, Gilmore received a $25 check and a Golden Ruler, symbolic of the Construction Trades contest. The Awards Program was held at Augustine's Restaurant in Belleville. Following the awards presentation, a luncheon was served to all participants and their guests.

Attending from Granite City were Gilmore, Mrs. Oliver Gilmore, his mother, Mrs. Rita Carter, his sister, and Jerry Ethridge, vocational drafting instructor.

Many hours were spent in the classroom and at home designing and building the model of a church as the theme for the contest this year was to design a place of worship. After graduation he plans to go to work for Engineers Collaborative, a consulting engineering firm, and go to school to become an architect.

David was presented with a $25 check and a Golden Ruler, symbolic of the Construction Trades contest. The Awards Program was held at Augustine's Restaurant in Belleville. Following the awards presentation, a luncheon was served to all participants and their guests.

Community colleges in state serving 236,580

By MARY LOU MANNING
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

Six months ago the Illinois Junior College Board took on a new name. So did the junior college, junior college district, comprehensive community college program, and the board of trustees for the junior college.

By legislation, they became the Illinois Community College Board, community college district, comprehensive community college program, and board of trustees for the community college.

References to Class I and Class II bit the dust altogether. Before, Class I districts were those districts with a population of at least 30,000 inhabitants or consisting of at least three counties or that portion of three counties not included in a community college district, and having an assessed valuation of not less than $75,000, and which districts levied a tax for community college purposes.

Class II district met the same criteria except that it did not have a separate tax rate for community college purposes.

There have been some changes made in other areas of the community college system. For example, the number of community college campuses across the state has been on the rise since 1965.

Prior to that date, the number of campuses stood at 23; this month there were 47 campuses.

The increase looks something like this: 1965-66, 27 campuses; 1966-67, 28; 1967-68, 34; 1968-69, 40; 1969-70, 43; 1970-71, 1971-72 and 1972-73, 46; and projected for 1974-75, 49.

Enrollment, too, has been on an incline. In the fall of 1965, a total of 64,628 students—both full-time and part-time—was recorded. In the fall of 1973, this number stood at 236,580.

Harpischord, flute concerts

Three concerts for harpischord and flute will be presented in this region Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings by two faculty members of the School of Music of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

The artists are John Boe, harpischordist, associate professor of music history and director of the SIUC Collegium Musicum, and Jervis Underwood, flutist, associate professor of flute, and first flutist with the Memphis (Tenn.) Symphony.

The Friday performance will be held in the Religious Center Building on the campus of SIU at Edwardsville, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

Saturday's concert will begin at 8 p.m. at the First Methodist

Of the 236,580 figure, most were part-time students. Specifically, 75,488 were full-time, 123,528 were part-time and 37,764 participated in community education offerings.

Most of the students resided in their respective districts; 187,813 were in-district, 14,477 were out-of-district, and 700 came from out-of-state.

Of the 110,944 full-time equivalent students, 72,685 were day students and 38,259 attended school at night. Total credit hours taken by all students reached 1,664,160.

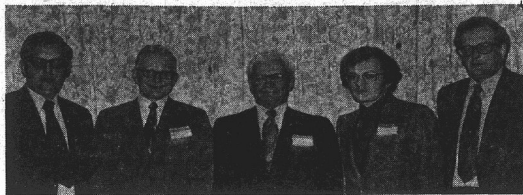

Services held for William Gushleff

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at a Madison funeral home for William Thomas Gushleff, 65, of 712 Madison Ave. He died at 6 a.m. Monday at the home of his son, Dr. Barry Gushleff, Kirksville, Mo. Burial was in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville Township.

He also is survived by his wife, Mrs. Pauline Gushleff; a daughter, Miss Paula Gushleff; a brother, Thomas Gushleff; two sisters, Mrs. Sophia Baker and Mrs. Helen Nobbom and three grandchildren.

FIND STOLEN CAR

The auto of Grace Peterson, 2907 Kirkpatrick Homes, stolen from a lot near her home, was recovered this week by Granite City police in another Kirkpatrick Homes parking lot.

Granite City Trust and Savings Bank hosted a monthly meeting of the Tri-City Bar Association at a social hour and a buffet dinner served at the Sunset Hills Country Club to 70 guests, including judges, associate judges and bank personnel.

The evening's program, with Attorney Leo Konzen acting as master of ceremonies included remarks by Attorney Alan Walker, president of the Tri-City Bar Association, and an address by Attorney Wilbur Legg, associated with the Chicago law firm of Lord, Bissell & Brook. Legg spoke on the subject of Specialization in the Practice of Law. He is chairman of the Illinois State Bar Association special committee on Specialization of the Bar.

City passes bill to control old buildings

An ordinance regulating unsafe, uncompleted and abandoned buildings in Granite City and providing means of recovering costs for demolition or repair of dilapidated buildings was enacted by the City Council in regular meeting Monday night.

The bill provides that the city may demolish, repair or cause the demolition or repair of dangerous and unsafe buildings or uncompleted and abandoned buildings within the city and specifies that "no building may be boarded up or otherwise enclosed."

City Attorney George Filcoff who prepared the ordinance said terms of the bill coincide with those of the state law governing regulation of such buildings, particularly as to court procedure for condemnation of property in instances in which property owners fail or refuse to restore deteriorating structures or have them torn down.

The ordinance provides the city may apply to the circuit court for an order authorizing repair of demolition of such structures if the owners fail to act within 15 days after being notified by mail to do so.

Cost of demolition or repair work incurred by the city may be recovered from the owners of the property through a lien which shall take precedence over all other liens except taxes, according to the ordinance.

ARRESTED AT HOME
James Clubb, 56, of 2113 Delmar Ave., was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor after he was arrested at his home at 8:05 p.m. Thursday. Police allege they found a 14-year-old girl in his home who had run away from her home.
